ABOUT CUPP

On July 16, 1990, the Supreme Soviet of the Ukrainian SSR adopted the Declaration of Sovereignty, which declared that Parliament recognized the need to rebuild the Ukrainian state based on the Rule of Law.

On August 24, 1991, the Ukrainian Parliament adopted the Declaration of Independence, which the citizens of Ukraine endorsed in the referendum of December 1, 1991. Also in 1991, Canadians celebrated the Centennial of Ukrainian group immigration to Canada. To mark the Centennial, Canadian organizations planned programs and projects to celebrate this milestone in Canada's history.

The Chair of Ukrainian Studies Foundation of Toronto marked the Centennial by establishing the CANADA-UKRAINE PARLIAMENTARY PROGRAM (CUPP) for university students from Ukraine in the House of Commons.

CUPP gives Ukrainian students an opportunity to observe parliamentary democracy and government and gain experience from which generations of Canadian, American and West European students have benefited.

On the basis of academic excellence, knowledge of the English or French and Ukrainian languages, and an interest in the Westminster model of parliamentary government, university students from Ukrainian and foreign universities, can apply for the CUPP internship program. It is the goal of CUPP to contribute to the education of future leaders of Ukraine.

Since 1991 almost one thousand Interns, have participated and attended CUPP internship programs, model Ukraine conferences and election campaigns in Canada and abroad. Two CUPP graduates have served as Cabinet Ministers, several others have served as Deputy Ministers, as well as Members of the Ukrainian Parliament.

CUPP graduates have helped establish important projects, namely: Professional Government Association of Ukraine, renamed Professional Government Institute (PGI), established in 2014 as a resource centre to help the Ukrainian Government identify and prioritize programs, motivate government to carry out the programs and projects, assist in securing resources and tools required to complete the projects/programs and measure and publish the results of such efforts.

Teach For Ukraine, a unique two-year leadership development program. Participants work in rural schools to create opportunities for children and mentor children in continuing education towards professions and trades. Teach For Ukraine NGO is associated with Teach For All, which operates in forty-two countries.

Anna Mazurenko Children's Health Centre of Lviv, a first of its kind health/medical centre focused on the health of children and families.

The Ukrainian Leadership Academy, a program for youth in their gap year between high school and university, is aimed at training young leaders. The program is headed by CUPP graduates.

In 2018, twenty-two CUPP students from universities in Belgium, France, Germany, Netherlands, Lithuania, Poland, and Ukraine will complete a two-month internship in the House of Commons.

On November 7, 2018 the CUPP Interns will hold Prayer for Peace in Ukraine and Throughout the World and Ukrainian Day on Parliament Hill at which the guests of honour will be Ministers and Deputy Ministers of Ukraine who are currently serving in government. All are CUPP graduates.

Life Before and After CUPP (CUPP-Kyiv/Lviv)

The year 1991 was a transformative opportunity for Ukraine. The disintegration of the empire of the Soviet Union gave 15 countries a chance at independence from communist rule centered at its hub in Moscow. In Ukraine transforming the government and society became the challenge.

On July 16, 1990, The Supreme Soviet of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic acknowledged the need to transform Ukraine and adopted the Declaration of Sovereignty, which recognized the need to rebuild the Ukrainian state based on the Rule of Law. This Declaration published in a pamphlet, emerged from the communist-era politicians without prodding from outside sources. They realized that the communist model of government was a failure and that a change was needed. But no one could predict how this transformational once in a lifetime opportunity would develop or how long the period of transformation would take. The politicians were educated under the communist system. Few if any had any experience in any other form of government. Twenty-seven years later the transformation is still underway.

American-Austrian educator Peter Drucker wrote "only three things happen naturally in organizations: friction, confusion, and underperformance. Everything else requires leadership." Like in an organization, Ukraine since 1991 experienced friction, confusion and underperformance by its leaders. But change is coming as steadily the generation born after 1991 is beginning to assume leadership responsibilities and moving into leadership positions.

Ukraine's university students, since 1991 have had a chance to experience a transformative opportunity in Canada, through the Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program (CUPP), an internship in the Canadian Parliament. Daily, during their internship the students observe the benefits of sound leadership and the exercise of political power, for the good of the country. They experience Canadian practices of peace, order and good government, wars and all.

CUPP has allowed Ukraine's students to observe Canada's government, to walk the same halls with cabinet ministers, prime ministers and government officials. It has allowed Ukraine's students to organize and participate in Model Ukraine Conferences dedicated to planning a better model of governance for Ukraine, at universities of George Washington, Ottawa, Oxford, Kyiv Mohyla, Ukrainian Catholic University, Government Conference Centre (Ottawa), Wycliffe College and Trinity College of the University of Toronto. It allowed CUPP graduates to benefit from scholarships to study at the John F. Kennedy School of Government Harvard University, Oxford University, London School of Economics, McGill University, University of Toronto, York University, University of Alberta, Columbia University, University of Latvia, University of Chicago, University of Michigan, University of Sciences Po (Paris), Cambridge University and others.

CUPP has created a community of like-minded individuals who were inoculated with a democratic strain of government based on the Westminster model of government. This cohort of Canadian trained individuals is moving through life with a determination and commitment to transform Ukraine into a European nation.

"CUPP is measured as life before and after CUPP. What came before was a rudderless soviet state of mind. What is coming after is a new country, a new millennium." Popular theme running at discussions among CUPP Alumni.

Address by Ihor Bardyn, Director and founder of the Canada Ukraine Parliamentary Program at the 28th CUPP Reunion in Kyiv on June 23, 2018.

In May 2018 at the Anna of Kyiv Cultural Centre benefit dinner in Senlis France, I spoke about the importance of the Anna of Kyiv Cultural Centre, and said that this project, linked to a centuries-old institution would become a centre of learning, influence and a custodian of history, in the future.

Today in Kyiv, I was asked to explain the Anna of Kyiv project. It is not simply a bricks and mortar restoration of a church from the 11th century. It is a project of historical value to illuminate the history of the royal houses of the Rurik dynasty of Kyiv and the Capetian dynasty of France through the marriage between Anna of Kyiv, daughter of Yaroslav the Wise and Henry 1 of France. It is a chapter of history of two European countries that are strengthening historic ties, which are important, especially in an era of appropriation of history and revised narratives of history.

And it is a project to recognize the leadership qualities of a knowledgeable woman who exhibited those leadership qualities during an age when women were not recognized as leaders. A builder of communities and a leader with vision who left a worthwhile legacy to be studied.

In a Kommersant newspaper of January 25, 2006, Oxford distinguished historian of Russia history Andrey Zorin wrote the article titled "Why We Don't like Ukraine".

Zorin addressed the claims of political leaders over the Russian Empire and its appropriation of the history of others. He wrote, "Missing the empire is not just missing the territory, it's missing the history".

He addressed the collapse of the Soviet-Russian Empire and commented that the Russian public and its political leaders are beginning to realize that Ukraine's statehood is an irreversible reality.

Zorin wrote, "This is a painful process and it has certain characteristic complexes associated with it, such as a separation complex and infantile resentment. One of the reasons for this reaction is that the imperial syndrome is rooted in the understanding of history that has reigned supreme in our national consciousness for the last 200 years."

When Peter I ruled the state he turned it upside down, he was convinced that he was creating a completely new power. However, his successors, still in the 18th century, felt the need to prop up their legitimacy with their ancient origin and they began to propagate the myth of the single chain of historic succession that connected Kyivan Rus with the Moscow kingdom and the St. Petersburg empire."

The founding fathers of the Russian Federation do not even try to portray themselves as founders of a new state. They prefer to play the role of princes, kings, emperors and general secretaries all at the same time. The result is that today Russian citizens are convinced that they are the direct and sole bearers of a thousand-year-old tradition, a powerful shoot surrounded on all sides by dried up branches."

A state that changes its capital, symbols, borders, state religion, political system and name becomes another state."

But it is a good idea to keep in mind that our neighbors have rights of inheritance as well. They love to recall the etymological meaning of "Ukraina" ("on the edge") in Russia today. But the question of who is on the edge and who is in the center of Rus is all and only a matter of where you are looking."

Support for the Anna of Kyiv Centre is important and the benefit dinner on the grounds of Saint Sofia Cathedral tomorrow, will be a stepping-stone in the campaign to build the centre in Senlis.

In coming to Kyiv I considered the paths we all have travelled, to come here for this CUPP reunion. And I could not but help looking at the paths of so many of you who are involved in the work of NGOs in Ukraine and those in the service of the Ukrainian state. Continue your service, and support the Anna of Kyiv Centre.

Our paths are not solitary journeys through life.

They are more like settling a sequence of villages. In each village we should build the community, we should build or plant worthwhile projects and then move on and settle more villages.

We should continue to act as ambassadors for the Anna of Kyiv, Senlis project to our friends and to the European community. Let's build the Centre in Senlis and take on the next challenge.

Without any exaggeration, Lake Synevyr is the legend of the Carpathians. It is the largest and the most mysterious mountainous lake in Ukraine. Being located high in the mountains, the lake is so deep that it does not warm up even in the summer, making the water clear or even crystal. Synevyr is like a blue eye - that is why its second name is very romantic, namely Marine Eye.

Synevyr is often visited by tourists. There are a lot of hikers with hangers and tents who come to admire the beauty of Marine Eye. Hence, the territory around the lake is well-equipped, and there are a lot of observation decks and decorative sculptures. But all these "signs of civilization" combine with the natural landscape so well that they do not spoil it in any way. The lake is surrounded by old firs so that, thanks to the aroma of needles, it is extremely easy to breathe. Although there are always a lot of people, one can even encounter with wild animals, transforming a trip into a real adventure.

City of Lviv. Only twice in my life I experienced the lingering feeling of 'being at home', and if for the first time it was at my real home, the second one was definitely in Lviv. A city once so alien had become entirely familiar and homelike in a flash. I am pretty sure that the deep and sincere love for Lviv was born way before I even came there. It is my mother, who was born and raised in Lviv together with my grandparents who spent over 10 years there, who mainly developed my rooted belongingness to the city somewhere on a genetic level. I will not enumerate here my favorite landmarks or bore you with historical dates of the famous spots of this legendary and charming city - all of us are pretty aware of those. However, I feel it is essential to confess that thanks to these inner Lviv's vibes full of rich cultural and historical heritage, this city became a place where I could feel myself a genuine Ukrainian for the first time in my life, where I started speaking Ukrainian with great pleasure and discovered my addition to 'syynyky'. To have 'a home away from home' is a true blessing. Even today, having been relocated from my real hometown, I always know that I can come to another city of my soul and feel myself peaceful - like at home.

Zamkova Hill. Is there a place where you could hide from a city rush after a work in your city? There are plenty of them in Kyiv. I do not have much time to travel somewhere, but I know that there are thousands of beautiful places around me where I can enjoy my free time. I could not imagine my rest without climbing Kyiv Hills, especially Zamkova hill. Calm, green places in the centre of Kyiv hide you from all the sounds of loud streets, problems and unite you with the nature. Only here you can observe the most breathtaking sunsets with an accompaniment of bird songs and pleasant chilling wind. The nature here plays its own symphony which fascinates you. Usually, there are no people here so that you can enjoy your rest in a calm atmosphere and breath fresh air with spring flowers aroma and catch pleasant sun rays. Some historians believe that before the Polyan prince Kyi built a castle on the Old-Kyiv Hill and founded Kyiv, his residence was located on Zamkova hill. That is why I enjoy this place even more - here you feel a huge power, which unites you with your ancestors and allows you to understand how beautiful Ukraine is.

Odesa, especially its middle-town with the beauty of its parks, alleys, paved roads and with richness and diversity of the atmosphere! Odesa has rich history: found by Russian Romanov dynasty, flourished as a big maritime trade center attracting a lot of entrepreneurial and creative people from all parts of huge empire and beyond. Then Odesa survived bloody futility of two world wars and of the civil war in 1917-1921, going through war horrors with its unique sense of humor. In our days, Odesa showed a great example of its solid stance - Odesa loves resilience and fun, but when necessary - it stands up and demonstrates sheer determination to utterly reject any claims against its home country - Ukraine. Odesa is a controversial city, where social clashes explode from time to time. However, I believe that Odesa is a place where different cultures may co-exist, and we will come to the point when it will be a firm reality. It is a right venue to turn back repeatedly, as only few can arguably claim that they have learned the city!

There is nothing more beautiful and unique in the whole world as the Carpathian Mountains. Why? That is because those are great and long mountains, high enough to enjoy the view and feel yourself on top of the world but also climbable for everyone not experienced in hiking. These mountains are magical because of the history and culture that lays within. Hutsuls (гуцули) are the folk that lives there, many of them are still doing farming and stockbreeding to live. It is astonishing how they can live like that in 2016, when it seems that even a tiny tad of technology has spread everywhere on the globe. When I was there this summer on a three-day hike, we met couple of them and they gave us some goat cheese and fresh bread. The sunsets are a must to see, they are charming, majestic and peculiar. When the sun sets behind Hoverla (the tallest mountain of Ukraine, 2061 m), it makes an enormous shadow on the woods below, kind of protecting from everything dangerous. Nevertheless, in the mountains it is always risky, there can be no water, no place to camp or to make fire. Or there can be a huge storm with rain and lightnings. And that is the beauty of the Carpathian Mountains: they are not welcoming but if you adapt, if you accept what you have and reduce your needs to minimum - you will become a part of the nature.

The Historic Center of Lviv. Since the moment of its foundation by King Danylo in mid-13th century, Lviv survived many periods of heyday and decline, couple of times was a capital and is known as “Ukrainian Piedmont” and cultural capital of Ukraine. Populated by multiple nationalities, city grew and developed, absorbing their specific and not losing its Ukrainian identity at the same time. In mid-16th century, after great fires of 1527 and 1556 Lviv lost many gothic-style buildings, but number of churches and plenty other buildings in renaissance, baroque and the classic styles survived to these days. Due to the fusion of the architectural and artistic traditions of Eastern Europe with those of Italy and Germany in 1998 Lviv Historic Centre was included to the UNESCO World Heritage List. Nowadays Lviv is ranked first among all cities of Ukraine by the number of architectural monuments and most of them are located in Old City. In addition to the unconditional architectural value, the central part of Lviv is important for every Ukrainian because of the places and buildings, directly related to the rebirth of Ukrainian culture and statehood in 19-20th centuries.

by Vasyl KRAMARETS

Lviv's city center has a lot to offer for appreciators of different styles of buildings, but among all the architectural diversity, personally, I adore St. Andrew's Church, also known as Bernardine Church. The first mention of wooden churches in this place dates back to 1460. It was built on the edge of Lviv of those times. Obviously, due to its location St. Andrew's Church often suffered from enemies' attacks on the city, so it was burned several times. In the modern form, the church appeared in the first half of XVII century. Every time, when I make the first step into it, I feel the spirituality of this place, where people are trying to find internal harmony and cherishing hopes for eternal life. The frescoes and sculptures of Paolo Romanus, Andrzej Bemer, and Amvrosiy Prykhylnyy complement each corner of this temple - creating a real pearl in the Renaissance style.

Nowadays, it lives its life in a wealth of gilding, but with a constant stream of people who direct their prayers to the Lord in the hope of receiving an answer from Him. This fact makes its significance even bigger - because it not only pleases the eye but also gives people the opportunity to touch the unattainable.

Milford Sound (Piopiotahi in Māori) is a fiord located in New Zealand's Fiordland National Park on the South Island. The beauty of this place, deemed as the 8th wonder of the world, cannot be described by words or reflected in photos, as it only can be experienced. As ships sail onwards towards the sea, the thundering waterfalls are falling from the sky into the crystal-clear water, while the clouds are floating over the tops of the mountains. This place is the pinnacle of a nature's fragile beauty. Milford Sound is one of few last places left on the planet where you can find yourself far away from the hustle of the ever-changing world, step back and just breath.

Optymistychna Cave has the total discovered length of 240.5 km and is situated in Ternopil region. It is the fifth longest cave in the world and until today is not fully researched. According to the scientists the cave consists of 18 isolated regions, situated in different depth levels, ranging from 20 to 80 meters. Inside of the Cave you can see mesmerizing mineral natural compositions and underground lakes. The biggest underground lake in the Cave is called "Aqva vitae". Optymistychna Cave was first discovered by a group of scientists in 1966. The scholars first thought that the Cave is just a small grotto, while the locals protested, saying it is much bigger than that. When the truth was discovered during later expeditions, the Cave got the name Optymistychna (Ukr: optimistic) honoring those enthusiastic locals, who encouraged scientist to further investigate the landmark. Currently, Optymistychna Cave holds a Guinness World Records title for the longest gypsum cave in the world.

I'm absolutely in love with Kyiv, where I've been studying for 3 years already, but one of my favorite places in Ukraine for sure are Carpathian Mountains. This is because of the amazing landscapes, beautiful nature and because of the magical atmosphere that this place has. Someone consider as a favourite place in Carpathians Hoverla or other huge and spectacular mountains, but I'm lucky to have my grandparents living in Carpathians so definitely for me their home is the most favourite place to come to. The village where they live also has a river which adds even more magical atmosphere to this place. You can see a lot of tourists coming in summer to enjoy the pure beauty of nature. Another reason why I love coming there is because local people are loving and respecting Ukrainian traditions, I can feel the spirit of real patriotism, which makes me think again that my motherland is a wonderful country. It deserves every effort and hard work, because we the citizens have a responsibility to make it even a better place.

by Yuliia POPYK

One of my favorite and most loved places in Ukraine is Kyiv. It took me some time to understand how deeply and madly I am in love with this city, and how lucky I am to live there. Even though Kyiv is full of charms and beautiful places, I would for sure highlight my favorite spot - Taras Shevchenko Park. Being a green island in the center of the city jungle, this place fascinates me with how many facets it holds. It breathes with history, having in the center of the park a monument of Taras Shevchenko, overlooking the whole area and reminding us of the Ukrainian past fights and modern glory; it portraits Ukrainian present, as many kids play around, young families take a stroll, older couples sit and talk on the benches; and it reminds of the future, as young students from Taras Shevchenko University in front of the park have a break in-between their lectures. It is immensely interesting to notice such a constructivist features in one area of the city. All those parts of the life of park are so interconnected to each other, reminding that the past is real and we need to remember it, the present is now and we need to keep up with it, and the future is near so we need to work on it. Covered with snow, or green and bloomy, Taras Shevchenko Park in Kyiv is a must to visit. Sometimes when getting tired in routine or fast tempo of Kyiv, you just have to slow down, choose a bench, close your eyes and feel everything happening around - children playing, students laughing, trees rushing, and Ukrainian wind touching your cheeks. Slow down for a second, reflect, and prepare yourself for the new achievements.

The Lviv Theatre of Opera and Ballet is built in the classical tradition using forms and details of Renaissance and Baroque architecture, also known as the Viennese neo-Renaissance style. The stucco mouldings and oil paintings on the walls and ceilings of the multi-tiered auditorium and foyer give it a richly festive appearance. The Opera's imposing facade is opulently decorated with numerous niches, Corinthian columns, pilasters, balustrades, cornices, statues, reliefs and stucco garlands. Standing in niches on either side of the main entrance are allegorical figures representing Comedy and Tragedy sculpted by Antoni Popiel and Tadeusz Baroncez; figures of muses embellish the top of the cornice. The building is crowned by large bronze statues, symbolizing Glory, Poetry and Music. The theatre, beautifully decorated inside and outside, became a centrefold of the achievements in sculpture and painting of Western Europe at the end of the 19th century.

Lake Geneva is a lake on the north side of the Alps, shared between Switzerland and France. It is one of the largest lakes in Western Europe and the largest on the course of the Rhône. 60 % of it comes under the jurisdiction of Switzerland (cantons of Vaud, Geneva, and Valais), and 40 % under France (department of Haute-Savoie). Lake Geneva is my favourite place. In 2017 and 2018 I was privileged to represent Ukraine as young emerging leader at two outstanding programs in Switzerland, United Nations Summer School and Caux Forum. Lake Geneva was my secret place to reflect on everything, understand all problems and search for solutions. "If we, Humans, have created so many problems to this world, then we should be responsible to find solutions too." I have many personal stories and how it helped me to find personal balance, mindfulness, shape my mindset of global responsibility, give me inspiration and help to find answers.

Lviv is my favorite city in Ukraine. Despite the fact that my city of birth is Rivne and my hometown is Kyiv I can't describe how much I'm impressed by Lviv. This city has a lot of attractions, museums, theaters, exhibitions and festivals. I've been there for many times and for different purposes such as business trips, family retreats and vacation, and each time I discovered something new, visited new places. I'm also impressed by Lviv's hospitality and willingness to show something new, unseen before. The thing which attracts me the most is Lviv's people ability to turn history into establishments, without losing the point of the place. Lviv is very attractive for foreigners, as it is the cultural capital of Ukraine and every time the city welcomes visitors with new cultural events. Also, Lviv is very romantic city with small and cozy streets, beautiful views and outstanding architecture. Lviv is a wonderful example of an authentic Ukrainian city with a good service and a presentation of history in a context that is understandable to everyone.

Senlis.

In 1049, Anne of Kiev married the French King Henry I. After the death of the king in 1060, She governed France to the majority of her son and continued to be active as a queen-mother. Anna could not return to her motherland and so she moved to France a corner of her native land. The queen builds several churches, with frescoes and mosaics reminiscent of Kiev. In 1060, one of those buildings was built, in Senlis, where there was before a small chapel in ruins, dedicated to St. Vincent. Around this chapel lay a vast meadow, called the "Pre-Du-Roi". It is on this ground that the queen had built her abbey. The Abbey has survived to this day and has become a private Catholic college. Today, at the entrance to the abbey stands the first monument of Anne Yaroslavna. With a royal crown on her head, Anne keep in one hand the royal scepter and in the second, a model of the church. The new monument to Anne of Kiev was opened in 2005. Finally, the Greek Catholic Church was opened in Senlis. This little town is one of my favourite place in France. It's a place of inspiration. How pleasant it is to see that a Ukrainian woman is so honoured in France. Her name was forever engraved in the French history. This small town welcomes the descendants of the glorious Anna of Kiev. Hundreds of Ukrainians and guests pay homage to this glorious Ukrainian Woman, queen of France. She represented dignifiedly his homeland in a foreign country.

L'Anse aux Meadows

The site was discovered in 1960 on the Newfoundland Island by an international team of archeologists and is now North America's best-known Viking settlement. The importance of L'Anse aux Meadows was swiftly recognized by the world community and it became the first UNESCO World Heritage Site. What makes it so significant is that it dates back to the XI century and is, therefore, a widely-acknowledged proof of the existence of pre-Columbian era of cross-Atlantic contacts. At this time, the site features the remains of eight authentic buildings as well as reconstructed versions of what is believed to be a typical Viking housing of that time. Although archeologists believe that due to rough weather conditions the settlement did not last long, the discovery of L'Anse aux Meadows suggests that Vinland - the land of grapes, described in Norse sagas, may have actually existed and is now known as North America.

You can slightly hear how someone on the third floor of the old house is mourning "Sous Les Ciel de Paris". Handsome man is carrying the bouquet of chamomiles. He's about to propose her. There's magic, there is warmth. There is the hint of a miracle in Paris. In the early morning, around 6 a.m.

New Zealand. This country is so diverse and so beautiful that even a lifetime will not be enough to explore it all. There's a little something for everyone, from the great walks to the mountains, from the hot springs to the hobbits and from the beaches to the lakes. There are more than enough reasons to claim that NZ is really close to Ukraine by different benchmarks. The loveliest thing for me in New Zealand is its people, happy and satisfied people. I dream that Ukrainians will also become like that over time. People who respect each other's values and are free in their choices and free from the stereotypes imposed by society. Freedom smells in the air of New Zealand and this is what I like the most.

I am in love with Lviv. I visited more than 35 countries, and 22 regional centers of Ukraine, but Lviv is the most beautiful and dear place to me. In Lviv city centre every single building, every corner and every stone is a part of rich history of the city. No surprise that Lviv's old town, the historical centre of the city, is recognised as the UNESCO World Heritage site. The Baroque buildings, with various patterns and paintings of frescoes on the walls tell a story of life of our ancestors. The city is full of vibrant emotions, powered up by enthusiastic youth. Yet, its cobble roads and tiny streets are soaked in history, and medieval buildings proudly stand there painted in yellow, orange, green and even black colours representing city's colourful past.

QUOTES

CUPP helps future Ukrainian leaders to learn about parliamentary democracy, it shows how to build a transparent legal system, how to keep government accountable. This knowledge is extremely useful and crucial for students' future and their careers. One of our goals as alumni is to mobilize western educated Ukrainians for a positive change in our country. Many CUPP alumni have entered Government work, helping fighting corruption, work on deregulation, decentralization, and actually being involved in many other economic reforms.

- Vasyl MYROSHNYCHENKO, CUPP 2001

Intern to Dan McTeague, Pickering-Ajax-Uxbridge, Ontario
Founder of Ukraine Crisis Media Center

One of the most important things which makes CUPP a valuable program is the individuals participating in it. CUPP creates a platform, which unites remarkable students and young professionals around the idea of learning from western democracies, taking this experience back to Ukraine and changing our country for the better. In addition to joining the big CUPP community, and learning from Canadian MPs, the program gives an opportunity to CUPP interns to share its unique experience, which each of us has managed to obtain, among ourselves and allows us to learn from each other. Witnessing the success in their professional, community and business fields is incredibly inspiring and motivating. And this gives you strength and commitment to make your own contribution in building our own country

Dmytro TKACHUK, CUPP 2016

intern to The Hon. Jason Kenney

CUPP connected me with some amazing and highly educated people. It is not only about the valuable experience, which we've gained as interns in the Parliament but also about knowledge, which we've shared with each other. I'm sure all CUPP Interns are the future success of Ukraine. Speaking of my most remarkable experience on Parliament Hill I can certainly say that I was amazed how easygoing and accessible all the members of Parliament were. It was a great pleasure to be around such intelligent and highly regarded people and, furthermore, to be the part of their work team. Each of them gave me a new understanding of what I should do in my life in order to be successful and to bring the benefits for my society.
