History of CUPP

On July 16, 1990, the Ukrainian Parliament adopted the Declaration of Sovereignty, which declared that Parliament recognized the need to build the Ukrainian state based on the Rule of Law.

On August 24, 1991, the Ukrainian Parliament adopted the Declaration of Independence, which the citizens of Ukraine endorsed in the referendum of December 1, 1991. Also in 1991, Canadians celebrated the Centennial of Ukrainian group immigration to Canada. To mark the Centennial, organizations planned programs and projects to celebrate this milestone in Canada's history.

The Chair of Ukrainian Studies Foundation of Toronto commemorated the Centennial, by establishing the Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program (CUPP) for university students. CUPP is a parliamentary internship program, which gives Ukrainian students an opportunity to work and study in the Canadian Parliament, and gain experience from which generations of Canadian, American and West European students have benefited. On the basis of academic excellence, knowledge of the English or French and Ukrainian languages, and an interest in the Westminster Parliament model of government, university students from Ukrainian and foreign universities, can apply for a CUPP internship program. It is hoped that CUPP will contribute to the education of future leaders of Ukraine.

In this, its 25th year of operation, the CUPP program welcomes thirty-three university students who attend universities in Bratislava, Dnipropetrovsk, Edinburgh, Krakow, Kyiv, Lviv, Munich, Mykolaiv, Lutsk, Ternopil, Vinnytsia, and Zaporizhia. The next traditional CUPP program will take place in the Autumn of 2017.

Вікно в Канаду

Роман ДІДЕНКО

CUPP 1996

Volodymyr Dahl National University, Luhansk
Intern to the Hon. Lawrence MacAulay, Cardigan P.E.I.

Я сиджу і дивлюся крізь вікно. Надворі всі ознаки близької весни. 28 лютого 1997 р. Сніг, що давно вже перестав піднімати настрій, поступово тане, відступаючи під натиском все сильнішого сонця. Звідкись лунає тиха музика. Пізнаю U2, а потім Derache Mode. За вікном мчать машини, деś пішов одинокий пішохід, а я все дивлюся і думаю. Де я? Чому я тут? І де я був рік тому?

Ще з тих пір, як я був студентом першого курсу, пам'ятаю одну фразу із підручника англійської мови Аракіна: "Canada is a far away country..." І ось я тут, в цій далекій країні, в її адміністративному центрі (завважу, що в цю пору року, я б ні за що не хотів опинитись в центрі географічному). В Канаді я вже вдруге. Позаду – надзвичайно цікава низка подій і пригод. Попереду – великі перспективи, спричинені набутим досвідом і бажанням втілити в українське життя все те позитивне, що я бачу в цій країні, яка, за визнанням ООН, є найкращим у світі місцем для життя.

А почалося все вранці 4 травня 1996 р., коли літак авіакомпанії AirUkraine відірвався від рідної землі з серйозним наміром перетнути Атлантику, несучи мене в мою першу закордонну подорож. Я був одним з тридцяти студентів з усіх куточків України, що подолали довгий шлях від біркових змагань на шляху до Отави, щоб стати учасниками шостої Парламентської Програми Канада-Україна. Студенти яскраво виділялись на фоні здебільше похилого віку пасажирів літака, як виділяється і програма, своєю неповторністю і націленістю на майбутнє.

Дев'ятого травня переможців зустрічала Оттава – чарівне місто на березі однойменної річки. Перед нами постав з туману Парляментський пагорб, піднятися на який і було нашою основною метою. Будівлі канадського парламенту витримані в єдиному стилі, що дуже нагадує будівлі парламенту британського, що зрештою не дивно, зважаючи на те, як тісно пов'язана історія цих двох країн. Прохолодний туман, суворі парляментські будівлі, Башта Миру, що височить над усією Отавою, а особливо церемонія зміни караулу у виконанні Королівської Гвардії миттєво створюють відчуття перебування в старій добрій Англії. Але це лише перше враження.

Канада вже давно провадить свою власну політику і учасники програми Канада-Україна мали виняткову нагоду провести два місяці в самому серці канадської політики, працюючи в офісах депутатів парламенту і спостерігаючи політичне життя зсередини – нагоду, яку має далеко не кожний. За словами одного з моїх товаришів по програмі, величезна цінність її полягає в тому, що вона надає можливість набутися досвіду професійного плану який є безцінним для людей зацікавлених у політиці, а радше у майбутньому своєї країни. Враження, отримані під час зустрі-чей з канадськими політиками та урядовцями, юристами та науковцями, дуже важко передати словами, але забути навряд чи можливо.

Культурна частина програми ніяк не менш насичена і захоплююча. Я ніколи не мріяв побачити так багато за такий короткий проміжок часу. Торонто, Монреаль, Ніягарський водоспад, національний парк Алгонквін, автомобільний завод General Motors в Ошаві, і сама Оттава з її численними музеями, фестивалями і кафе на будь-який смак – все це було частиною програми і назавжди лишилось частиною моїх спогадів.

Багато країн стараються надати своїй молоді досвід роботи в канадському парламенті. Тим більш приємно знати, що програма Канада-Україна є лідером, як за числом учасників, так і за рівнем організації, випереджаючи навіть "у всьому перших" американців. Все це стало можливим завдяки Фундації катедри українознавчих студій в Торонто (Chair of Ukrainian Studies Foundation) на чолі з паном Ігорем Бардиним. Розуміючи, що майбутнє України неможливе без освіченої і досвідченої молоді, Фондація започаткувала парляментську програму в 1991 р. і дотепер робить все, щоб надати українським студентам можливість навчатись і набувати досвіду у найкращих наукових та професійних установах світу.

Не варто і казати, що два місяці програми пролетіли дуже швид-

ко. І незчулися ми, як уже настав час для офіційної церемонії закриття програми, що відбувалась в Торонто в атмосфері піднесення і, водночас, суму, бо то ж таки було логічне завершення. Завершення, але не кінець. Багато хто з минулорічних учасників програми зараз продовжує навчання в престижних університетах Західної Європи та Північної Америки. Дружба, що почалася під час програми, залишиться назавжди. Уже зараз випускники програми активно включаються у суспільне життя в Україні, але це лише початок. Далі буде більше, і кажучи словами одного з учасників Парламентарної програми Канада-США: "Україна буде в надійних

руках, коли ця група молодих, енергійних і освічених друзів вийде на політичну арену". Наприкінці програми, я отримав почесну нагороду: Стипендію імені Джона Сопінки, для однорічного стажування в Канадському інституті полагодження конфліктів. І ось я знову в Канаді, в її адміністративному центрі. Я вивчаю науку, що є новою навіть тут, у Північній Америці, але яка надзвичайно швидко розвивається і тіснить традиційні суди і бійки як засоби розв'язання конфліктів. Безперечно, ці нові ідеї знайдуть своє місце і в Україні і я в захопленні від можливості бути одним з найперших українців у цій новій сфері. Знову дивлячись у вікно, я не

можу не думати про те, що участь в Парламентарній програмі Канада-Україна стала для мене вікном в Канаду, в новий світ широким перспектив. Перебування в чужій країні, відділеній тисячами кілометрів води і суші від рідної домівки, дало мені крім всього іншого, одну можливість, якої я взагалі не очікував. Вперше, я по-справжньому відчув свою тотожність, причетність до України, гордість за свою націю і країну. У цьому пляні участь у Парламентарній програмі Канада-Україна стала й вікном у мою власну душу. А чи можна отримати знання більше, ніж розуміння самого себе? ■

University of Wrocław, Poland (est. 1702) Faculty of Social Science, International Student Exchange Master's program "International Relations".

Alexandra and Irene Sukniarsky CUPP Scholarship recipient

2016 Intern to Bob Saroya, MP for Markham–Unionville, Ontario. After being elected to office in October 2015, Saroya was appointed by Interim Leader of the Conservative Party Rona Ambrose as the Deputy Critic for Immigration, Citizenship and Refugees and is currently serving on the Standing Committee on Citizenship and Immigration. Saroya immigrated from India in 1974 with $7 in his pocket. Armed with a dream of making this country his own and an undying spirit for hard work and dedication he was able to, over the years, become a successful businessman and father. Prior to throwing his hat into the political field, Saroya assumed various positions and worked his way up the Canadian corporate ladder. Over the last 40 years he has become a well-known face in Markham. Community service has always been an integral part of Bob's life. He has been involved in fundraising activities for many important local organizations such as: 360° Kids (York), Markham Stouffville Hospital, in addition to sponsoring many local amateur sports teams. Complementary to his community involvement, Bob also takes time out of his busy schedule to meet with, and mentor, many new immigrants. MP Saroya continues to serve his constituents in Ottawa and will continue to fight for their needs.

Last book read: Ayn Rand "The Fountainhead".

Favourite quote by Ukrainian author: "Ми – це не безліч стандартних "я", а безліч всесвітів різних" – Василь Симоненко.

Favourite quote by foreign author: "The future depends on what you do today" – Mahatma Gandhi.

Favourite musical recordings: Okean Elzy "Така як ти" (The girl like you).

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Place D'Armes, Montreal, Quebec. Originally built at the end of the 17th century, Place d'Armes gathered all the periods of French Canadian past in one place. In the center of the square stands a monument dedicated to the city's founder – Paul Chomedey de Maisonneuve. In front of the monument is the pearl of the square – the stunning Notre-Dame Basilica, built during the 19th century by a Protestant architect. The square also represents Montreal's first skyscraper, eight-floor New York Life Building completed in 1888; this building had the city's first elevator. Other steel skyscrapers – Royal Trust Bank and Duluth – appeared around the Place in the second decade of the 20th century. The Art Deco style is represented by eloquent Aldred building, 1929, with its setbacks designed to ensure natural lighting for the streets below. National Bank of Canada tower is also situated at Place D'Armes and is almost the sole example of the international post-war style in Old Montreal. Place D'Armes is a favourite destination of every tourist who comes to visit a beautiful city of Montreal. ■

Dr. Taras Fecycz Scholarship recipient

2016 Intern to Bob Bratina, MP for Hamilton East–Stoney Creek, Ontario. Born and raised in Hamilton, Bob Bratina is of Serbian and Croatian ancestry. After 40 years in broadcasting, Bob Bratina entered municipal politics in 2004 and has served the citizens of Hamilton for over a decade – most notably as Mayor since 2010. As Mayor, Bob set Hamilton on the path of growth and sound public finances; he has worked fiercely to create new jobs for his citizens by welcoming manufacturing facilities and R&D companies into the city. And as a member of the GO Transit Board of Directors, Bob was instrumental in securing funding for infrastructure projects that improved train service for Hamilton commuters. Bob is a member of the Football Reporters of Canada Hall of Fame, holder of two Queen's Jubilee Medals for lifetime community achievement, and was also named Hamilton Mountain Citizen of the Year in 2002. A talented musician and avid marathon runner, Bob has performed on stage with the Hamilton Philharmonic Orchestra, and competed in 18 marathons, twice in the famed Boston Marathon, and ten times in the 30 K Around the Bay Road Race, all past the age of 40. He and his wife Carol have been married for 48 years, and have a son Sam who is a police officer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Favourite musical recording: Sting "Desert Rose".

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Royal Alexandra Interprovincial Bridge is a steel truss cantilever bridge spanning the Ottawa River between Ottawa Ontario and Gatineau, Quebec. It was built in nine months from 1899 to 1900 and officially opened as the Interprovincial Bridge on 1901. The name was changed later to commemorate a Royal Visit by the soon to be King George V and his wife Alexandra. The bridge is an ideal place to get a fantastic view of both provinces. ■

Program alumna.

Atamanchuk Family CUPP Scholarship recipient 2016 Intern to Christine Moore, MP for Abitibi–Témiscamingue, Quebec. Christine was born and raised in La Sarre, Quebec. She earned a diploma of college studies in nursing from the Cégep de l'Abitibi–Témiscamingue in 2008 and a B.Sc. in nursing from the Université du Québec en Abitibi–Témiscamingue (UQAT) in 2010. She completed a one-month humanitarian internship in Senegal as part of her nursing degree at UQAT in 2009, and she served with the Canadian Forces for over three years. She is also a member of Nurses Without Borders. She was elected as the Member of Parliament for Abitibi–Témiscamingue, Quebec for the New Democratic Party during the 2011 Canadian federal election. In 2015, Christine Moore was re-elected. In January 2015, she was appointed Deputy Critic for Health for the NDP. In February 2016, Christine Moore was elected to the executive committee of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association as a Vice-Chair. Since April 18, 2016 Christine Moore is a Vice-Chair of the Canadian Association of Parliamentarians on Population and Development. Christine Moore gave birth during the election campaign in 2015. She has been pushing for more resources for MPs with newborns since she came back to Parliament in fall in 2015: high chairs were put in parliamentary cafeteria, the Commons Board of Internal Economy also changed the name of the "spouses lounge" near the Commons Chamber to "family room" to better accom-moderate the changing demographics of the House.

My favourite musical recording: Skryabin "The places of happy people".

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Rideau Canal consists of a series of beautiful lakes and rivers connected by canals. It stretches from Kingston, at the foot of Lake Ontario, to Ottawa. The Rideau Canal is living history. It is the oldest continuously operated canal in North America. It was opened in 1832 as a precaution in case of war with the United States. It remains in use today primarily for pleasure boating, with most of its original structures intact, operated by Parks Canada. ■

Alexander and Irene Hordienko CUPP Scholarship recipient.

2016 Intern to Mark Warawa, MP for Langley–Aldergrove, British Columbia. Mark was re-elected on October 19, 2015 to the 42nd Canadian Parliament for his fifth term as Member of Parliament for the new riding of Langley–Aldergrove. He was appointed as the Official Opposition Critic for Seniors and is responsible for bringing forward seniors' issues at the Shadow Cabinet table and in Parliament. Mark is the longest serving Conservative MP from British Columbia in 42nd Parliament. Mark has the honourable distinction of being the Parliamentary Secretary to four different Ministers of the Environment, from 2006 to 2011. In 2011, Mark was appointed to the position of Chair of the Standing Committee of Environment and Sustainable Development for Canada, overseeing Canada's Environmental Committee work, studies and legislative reviews. He continues to be consulted on environmental issues. He also continues to build Canada's bilateral relationships through his work as Treasurer of the Canada-Ukraine and Canada-Taiwan Parliamentary Groups, Director for the Canada-Korea and Canada-Israel Parliamentary Groups, and as a Member of the Canada-Europe, Canada-Mexico, Canada-Hong Kong and Canada-China Parliamentary Groups. Mark was with Prime Minister Harper on an official State visit to Ukraine in 2010. He also led a Canadian Parliamentary delegation to Taiwan in 2011. In 2014, he was on a trade delegation to Ukraine, and served as an election observer during the October 2014 Parliamentary elections in Ukraine.

Hometown: Toronto, Ontario, Canada

Ryerson University (est. in 1948) Department of Politics and Governance. Motto of the University: MENTE ET ARTIFICIO – With Mind and Skill.

Nanyang Technological University (est. in 1991). Department of Human Social Sciences.

Mazurenko Family Scholarship recipient

2016 Intern to David Yurdiga, MP for Fort McMurray – Cold Lake, Alberta. David Yurdiga is the Conservative Candidate for Fort-McMurray – Cold Lake. He was born in Northern Alberta and spent most of his youth on his family farm in Grassland. Upon the completion of his post secondary, David began his employment with Eco-Bay Mine in Nunavut. After some time spent away from his family, he chose to return to Alberta and work with Occupational Health and Safety at a Mines Inspection Branch where he wrote, and published safety training manuals. Later in life, David became a successful entrepreneur by opening a consulting firm specializing primarily in property management. Upon retirement, David later began his political career when he was elected to the municipal council of Athabasca County in 2007. He continued on by successfully becoming a Reeve from 2009 to 2013. In June of 2014, David was elected as a Member of Parliament for Fort McMurray – Athabasca, and later re elected in the redistributed riding of Fort McMurray – Cold Lake. As an elected official, he sat on both the Transport, and Canadian Heritage committees. Besides politics David has been a very active member of the community where he advocated for his constituents, as co-chair of the Alberta Energy Corridor, and a Chair for both the Athabasca Regional Multiplex, and Aspen Regional Water Commission. He has also served on the Board for Tawatinaw Community Futures and Physician Recruitment Committee for Athabasca, and a full member of a provincial Metis organisation. For his work in the community David was awarded the Canadian Queen Jubilee Medallion. Being a lifelong resident and business owner in northeastern Alberta, David has a strong understanding of the individual needs and interests of each town and community in Fort McMurray–Athabasca.

Favourite quote by foreign author: To improve is to change; to be perfect is to change often (Winston Churchill). Change is the law of life. And those who look only to the past or present are certain to miss the future (John F. Kennedy).

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Queens Park is Ontario's fourth legislative building that was named in honour of Queen Victoria. The legislative building is over 120 years old, first opening in 1893. It is located to the northeast of the city and is landscaped according to a picturesque design, enclosed in the ground of the University of Toronto. The building is leased from the university for 999 years. It serves as the seating place for the Ontario provincial government. Just like its history in political matters, the legislative building was nearly destroyed by a fire in 1909, which destroyed the interior of the edifice, including the library and all of its public records. ■

Born in: Lviv, Ukraine

Hometown: Toronto, Ontario

York University (est. 1959) Faculty of Arts

Ramon Hnatyshyn CUPP Scholarship recipient

2016 Intern to Kate Young, MP for London West, Ontario. Kate represents the electoral district of London

West as a member of the Liberal party. Prior to being elected, Ms. Young was best known as the first female news anchor at CFPL-TV where she worked for almost 20 years. She is presently Manager of Public Affairs at the Thames Valley District School Board, serves on the Fanshawe College Board of Governors and is Co-Chair of the Ability First Coalition. Young defeated Conservative incumbent Ed Holder, who served as Minister of State, Science and Technology for the past year, to return the party to Liberal red. Young's victory, with 45.8% of the vote, came four years after Holder easily won the riding, also winning 45 per cent of the vote.

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Toronto Harbour or Toronto Bay is a bay on the north shore of Lake Ontario, in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. It is a natural harbour, protected from Lake Ontario waves by the Toronto Islands. Today, the harbour is used primarily for recreational boating, including personal vessels and pleasure boats providing scenic or party cruises. Ferries travel from docks on the mainland to the Islands, and cargo ships deliver aggregates and raw sugar to industries located in the harbour. Historically, the harbour has been used for military vessels, passenger traffic and cargo traffic. ■

2016 Intern to Jamie Schmale, MP for Haliburton–Kawartha Lakes–Brock, Ontario. Prior to entering politics, Jamie attended Fenelon Falls High School and Loyalist College, graduating from the Radio Broadcasting program. Jamie started his career as News Anchor and later News Director for CHUM Media. Covering news, municipal politics, and sports for 91.9FM Radio CKLY in Lindsay, Jamie covered the horrific attacks of 9/11, the blackout of 2003, and the amalgamation of the 16 municipalities of Victoria County into what is now the single-tier City of Kawartha Lakes. Raised in Bobcaygeon, he now calls Lindsay his home with his wife, Julia (since 2003), and his 3-year-old son, Declan. A local professional, husband, father, and volunteer, Jamie is actively involved in local sports both as a cheering dad to Declan and as the referee assignor for Minor Hockey. He is the go-to guy when it comes to being the Master of Ceremonies for fundraising campaigns and committees, including: the Victoria County United Way, Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Victoria–Haliburton, Easter Seals, Community Care, Kawartha Lakes Fire Chief's Annual Ball, Kawartha Lakes Awareness Fair, the Multiple Sclerosis Walk, Lindsay Can-ada Day, COKL Awareness Fair, the Vancouver 2010 Olympic Torch Relay, and the Lindsay EX parade committee.

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Prince Edward Island is one of four Atlantic provinces located on Canada's east coast. The Island is crescent-shaped and resembles a cradle, thus the Mi'kmaq name of Abegweit, which means "the land cradled on the waves." Our rich culture and heritage offer much to be seen and explored and our warm hospitality sets us apart. The green pastoral landscape and water views make our Island way of life unique. They also allow us to produce some of the tastiest food experiences found globally. And our miles of sandy beaches are some of the best in the world. ■

2016 Intern to the Hon. Jason Kenney, MP for Calgary Midnapore, Alberta. As President of the Canadian Taxpayers Federation, Jason Kenney fought hard for lower taxes and fiscal responsibility. In 1997, Calgary voters elected him for the first time as a Member of Parliament. Since then, he's been voted the "best overall," "hardest working," and "most knowledgeable" MP by his colleagues, and called "perhaps Canada's best immigration minister ever" by the National Post. As Minister of Employment and Social Development, he re-tooled training programs and implemented the Canada Job Grant to connect Canadians with good-paying jobs. He served Canada's Armed Forces as the Minister of National Defence in 2015, while continuing his work with multicultural communities across Canada. He also chaired the Cabinet Operations Committee, and served as the Regional Minister for Southern Alberta. In 2015, Jason was re-elected with nearly 67% of the vote. He hopes to continue serving his constituents in the new riding of Calgary Midnapore, and to keep working for a Canada that is strong and free.

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Commissioners Park – Ottawa Tulip Festival. Since 1953, the Canadian Tulip Festival has been celebrating the legacy of the tulip, Ottawa's flower, which symbolizes the strong bonds of friendship between Canada and the Netherlands, forged in Canada's role in the Liberation of the Netherlands during the Second World War. During the Nazi occupation of the Netherlands, the Dutch royal family found asylum in Ottawa. The family stayed at Stornoway – now the official residence of the Leader of the Opposition. As a token of gratitude, once the war ended, the Dutch sent to Ottawa hundreds of thousands of tulip bulbs. Ever since, Ottawa has found itself flooded with their dazzling blossom during springtime. Commissioners Park is one of the locations where Ottawa Tulip Festival – ranked the world's largest tulip festival – is held every May. ■

At the age of 19 he joined the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and completed 35 years of service in the Province of British Columbia. Following his retirement he continued his public service by serving two terms on Council for the City of Fort St. John, B.C. Jim also worked for British Columbia in Coroner's Services, Taxation Department and Gaming Branch as a Special Investigator. Jim won the by-election in November 2014 and was re-elected to the House of Commons in October 2015. Jim is presently Vice-Chair of the Standing Committee on the Environment and Sustainable Development. In the 41st Parliament, he served on two committees: Standing Committee on Human Resources, Skills and Social Development and the Status of Persons with Disabilities (HUMA) and, the Standing Committee on Citizenship and Immigration (CIMM). Jim and his wife Nancy returned home to Alberta and chose Yellowhead to be near family and in particular their young grandchildren. Throughout his career, Jim has always taken an active interest in a variety of service clubs and organizations. His natural leadership abilities enabled him to act as the President of most of those organizations. His interest in aircraft led him to achieve a Commercial Pilots' license. Yellowhead Pass is a mountain pass across the Continental Divide of the Americas in the Canadian Rockies. It is located on the provincial boundary between the Canadian provinces of Alberta and British Columbia, and lies within Jasper National Park and Mount Robson Provincial Park. It is believed that the pass was named for Pierre Bostonais (nicknamed Tête Jaune, French for "yellow head", because of his blond hair), an Iroquois-Métis trapper employed as a guide by the Hudson's Bay Company. Bostonais led one of the first expeditions for the company to what is now the interior of B.C. through the pass in 1820. ■

2016 Intern to Harold Albrecht, MP for Kitchener–Conestoga, Ontario. Harold Albrecht is a proud lifelong resident of the riding of Kitchener–Conestoga. He attended Waterloo–Oxford District Secondary School and Waterloo Lutheran University (now Wilfrid Laurier University), before going on to the University of Toronto; attaining his Doctorate of Dental Surgery (DDS) in 1973. He returned to Waterloo Region, opening a dental practice and operating it successfully for 27 years. Before entering public service, Harold was an active member of the community, both locally and globally. He served as a Trustee for the Waterloo County Board of Education from 1978 to 1982, and as Chair in 1981–82. He was founding Pastor at Pathway Community Church in south Kitchener, and served there for six years. In remote parts of Honduras and the Dominican Republic, Harold lent his professional skills to numerous relief efforts organized by the Christian Medical-Dental Society. Far too often, these visits by nurses, surgeons, dentists and ophthalmologists would provide the only medical service a village could access for months. Other international service assignments brought him to diverse countries such as Venezuela, Colombia, Zambia, Nepal, and India. Harold was first elected to the House of Commons in 2006, narrowly defeating incumbent Lynn Myers. In the subsequent election of October 2008, Harold was re-elected with 49.2% of votes cast. In November of 2008, Prime Minister Stephen Harper named Harold Deputy Government Whip, and re-appointed him subsequent to the May 2nd 2011 election. In January 2013, Harold was unanimously elected Chair of the House of Commons'

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Vegreville Egg is a giant sculpture of a pysanka, a Ukrainian-style Easter egg. The work by Paul Maxum Sembaliuk is 31 ft (9 m) long and three and a half stories high, weighing in at 2.5 t (5,512 lb). It is the second largest pysanka in the world.[2] The biggest one was built in Kolomyia, Ukraine. The sculpture was commissioned by the town of Vegreville, in the Canadian province of Alberta noted for its high Ukrainian Canadian population. In order to obtain funding for it, the town applied for a federal government grant and was eventually able to obtain some funding, but only if the sculpture was dedicated to the 1975 centennial of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Vegreville received a grant to construct the egg, a nod at Ukrainian culture in Canada, and specifically at early Ukrainian settlements east of Edmonton. ■

Outstanding landmark of architecture in Canada: Rideau Hall is since 1867 the official residence in Ottawa of both the Canadian monarch and his or her representative, the Governor General of Canada, and has been described as "Canada's house". Most of Rideau Hall is used for state affairs, only 500 m<sup>2</sup> (5,400 sq ft) of its area being dedicated to private living quarters, while additional areas serve as the offices of the Canadian Heraldic Authority and the principal workplace of the governor general and his or her staff—either the term Rideau Hall, as a metonym, or the formal idiom Government House is employed to refer to this bureaucratic branch. Rideau Hall and the surrounding grounds were designated as a National Historic Site of Canada in 1977. The house is open to the public for guided tours throughout the year; approximately 200,000 visitors tour Rideau Hall annually. ■

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Sculpture "Equal Before The Law" in Toronto. This sculpture, which has been installed really recently (in 2012), captures immediate attention of the observers walking alongside the Ontario Courthouse. Designed by Toronto artist Eldon Garnet, it portrays the lion and the lamb on the scales. The landmark is very symbolic, as the lamb embodies the poorer, and the weaker, while the lion stands for richness, strength, and power. However, despite the sizes, strength, and other factors, both are equal before the law, both are protected. This bronze sculpture depicts the value of the Canadians, and thus, despite being relatively modern, is a landmark worth seeing in Toronto. ■

2016 Intern to David Yurdiga, MP for Fort McMurray–Cold Lake, Alberta. Born and raised in Northern Alberta David spent most of his youth on the family farm in Grassland. He attended several post-secondary institutions including Northern Alberta Institute of Technology (NAIT), University of Alberta, and Alberta Vocational College. During his summers David spent his time in Fort McMurray working on the Oil Sands. Upon completion of his post-secondary specialization in mining, David began full time employment with Eco-Bay Mine in Nunavut. While he enjoyed the work, the isolation and time away from family had him return to Alberta and work with Occupational Health and Safety, Mines Inspections Branch where he wrote, and published training manuals. He operated the firm for 21 years specializing mostly in property management. David also opened and operated Lone Wolfe Distributors in Fort McMurray for seven years, providing safety and cleaning supplies to community business. Once he retired, David returned full time to the family farm which had been an integral part of his life. David farmed with his father till his passing in 2005, and then took over the farm, applying the same organic principles to raising beef cattle that his father had done. David entered into politics in 2007 when he was elected to the municipal council of Athabasca County. He later successfully ran for Reeve and served from 2009 to 2013. Besides politics David has been a very active member of the community where he advocated for his constituents, as co-chair of the Alberta Energy Corridor, and a Chair for both the Athabasca Regional Multiplex, and Aspen Regional Water Commission. He has also served on the Board for Tawatinaw Community Futures and Physician Recruitment Committee for Athabasca, and a full member of a provincial Metis organisation. For his work in the community David was awarded the Canadian Queen Jubilee Medallion.

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Ivan Franko Home for the Aged in Mississauga is a gorgeous place where Ukrainians can feel as at home. There is an apple and pear garden that brings rich fruits behind the building. Here is a kitchen garden where workers grow nutrient plants that are served at tables. Furthermore, there you can find few tall and rank walnut-trees that I find rare in Toronto area. It can be explained by the fact that local squirrels gather it faster than anybody else. The interior design of Ivan Franko House is decorated with embroidered towels, fresh-cut flowers and mosaic on the walls. The exterior design presents flowers, wooden statues of men and women and well-groomed fountains. This house is Ukrainian heritage for many who explore ethno-cultural environment and traditions. You can dive into Ukrainian Canadian atmosphere speaking with sociable and hospitable residents. Once you come to Ivan Franko House you will enjoy warmth of countrymen. ■

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Old Montreal, is the oldest area in the city of Montreal with few remains dating back to New France and is located in the borough of Ville-Marie, and includes the Old Port of Montreal. With some of its buildings dating to the 17th century, it is one of the oldest urban areas in North America. In the eastern part of the old city are found Montreal City Hall, Bonsecours Market and Notre-Dame-de-Bon-Secours Chapel, as well as preserved colonial mansions such as the Château Ramezay. Further west, Place d'Armes is dominated by Notre-Dame Basilica on its southern side, accompanied by the Saint-Sulpice Seminary — the oldest extant building in Montreal. The other sides of the square are devoted to commerce; to the north is the former Bank of Montreal Head Office and to the west, the Aldred Building and the 1888 New York Life Building, the oldest skyscraper in Canada. ■

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Niagara Falls. Known in the past as the premiere Honeymoon destination, this geological wonder is not only one of most popular tourist attractions, but also functions as one of the major power providers. Comprised of three waterfalls – American Falls, Horseshoe Falls and Bridal Veil Falls – Niagara Falls water stems from the upper Great Lakes and the river is estimated to be 12,000 years old. The wonder of the falls has intrigued many and has prompted daredevils to "conquer" the falls in various contraptions from wooden barrels to rubber balls. The water that runs over the falls comes from the Great Lakes. Ninety percent of the water goes over the Horseshoe Falls. Originally, as much as 5.5 billion gallons of water per hour flowed over the falls. Today the amount is controlled by the Canadian and American governments to slow erosion. In addition, some of the water is diverted to provide power for the United States and Canada, making Niagara Falls the largest source of electric power in the world. Twelve million tourists from all over the world visit Niagara Falls every summer. ■

After cutting her journalistic teeth as a Ukraine-based stringer for the Financial Times, Washington Post, and The Economist, Ms. Freeland went on to wear many hats at the Financial Times, including deputy editor, UK news editor, Moscow bureau chief, Eastern Europe correspondent, editor of its weekend edition, and editor of FT.com. She served as deputy editor of Canada's The Globe and Mail between 1999 and 2001, before becoming the U.S. managing editor of the Financial Times. In 2010, Ms. Freeland joined Canadian-owned Thomson Reuters as editor-at-large. She most recently worked as Managing Director and Editor of Consumer News. Ms. Freeland was a weekly columnist for the Globe and Mail, writing extensively about income inequality and challenges facing the middle class. She is the author of Sale of a Century: The Inside Story of the Second Russian Revolution (2000) and Plutocrats: The Rise of the New Global Super-Rich and the Fall of Everyone Else (2012). She is the recipient of the prestigious Lionel Gelber Award and the 2013 National Business Book Award. She was also a featured speaker at TEDGlobal 2013.

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada:
Centre Block is the main building of the Canadian parliamentary complex on Parliament Hill, Ottawa. It hosts the House of Commons and Senate chambers, as well as the offices of MPs and senators. Built in the Gothic Revival style, the present Centre Block is the building's second iteration. The first was destroyed by fire in 1916. All that remains of the original building is the beautiful Library of Parliament. ■

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: East Block is one of the three buildings on Canada's Parliament Hill, in Ottawa, Ontario, containing offices for parliamentarians, as well as some preserved pre-Confederation spaces. It was built between the years 1859-1866, and along with the Library of Parliament, remains one of only two buildings on Parliament Hill to have survived mostly intact since original construction. It housed the offices for the early prime ministers, including John A. Macdonald, and the Governor General. It was extended in 1910 adding six massive vaults for storing wealth. Designed by Thomas Stent and Augustus Laver, the East Block is an asymmetrical structure built in the Victorian High Gothic style, with load bearing masonry walls. The level of quality and luxury of the offices initially indicated the status of the inhabitant: large, wood panelled chambers with marble fireplaces and richly decorated plaster ceilings served for ministers of the Crown; intricate, but somewhat less detailed cornices were sufficient for senior bureaucrats; and basic, machine-made woodwork and concrete fireplace mantles filled rooms set aside for clerks. ■

He has been re-elected six times, most recently with nearly 67 per cent of the vote in 2015. He is a former Chairman of the House of Commons Subcommittee on International Human Rights, and served in several positions in Opposition, including as Finance Critic and Deputy House Leader. Mr. Kenney became Parliamentary Secretary to Prime Minister Harper in 2006, and Secretary of State for Multiculturalism and Canadian Identity in 2007. As Canada's longest-serving Minister of Citizenship and Immigration from 2008 to 2013, Mr. Kenney implemented comprehensive reforms to Canada's immigration, refugee and citizenship programs. In 2013, he was appointed Minister of Employment and Social Development and Minister for Multiculturalism, with a mandate to ensure that Canadians are well-prepared to participate fully in the labour market of the future. Mr. Kenney was appointed Minister of National Defence and Minister for Multiculturalism in 2015. He also chaired the Cabinet Committee on Operations and served as the Regional Minister for Southern Alberta, and sits on the Cabinet Committees for Foreign Affairs and Security and Planning and Priorities. Mr. Kenney has been voted the "best overall" and

"hardest working" MP by his colleagues in the Maclean's Magazine annual survey of parliamentarians.

Lake Louise is a beautiful mountain lake in the middle of Banff National Park in the Alberta Rockies region of Alberta, Canada. The lake is surrounded by snow-capped peaks, and at the far end is a large glacier. The lake is quite isolated, but provides a magnificent setting for a luxury resort, the Châteaux Lake Louise, and a conference wing on the 'inland' side of the hotel. Before 8AM, one may see the lake with few people around; at dawn, the light shines onto the back wall of the glacier lake. Just before dusk is also reasonably quiet. ■

2016 Intern to Bev Shipley, MP for Lambton–Kent–Middlesex, Ontario. Bev Shipley has worked and lived in the Lambton–Kent–Middlesex riding his entire life, just as generations of his family have done since 1819. After graduating from Centralia College of Agriculture Technology, Bev took over the family farm, which he expanded to include cash crops and purebred dairy cattle. He has been active in the community through numerous community organizations and church. Bev was involved in municipal government for 20 years, including 7 years as Mayor of Middlesex Centre. It is in the Township of Middlesex Centre that Bev and his wife of 43 years, Barb, raised three now grown children. Bev is the proud grandfather of ten grandchildren. Over the years, Bev Shipley has demonstrated a strong commitment to his family, community and public service, which all contribute to his excellent leadership skills and his understanding of the needs of constituents. Bev was first elected as the Member of Parliament for Lambton-Kent-Middlesex in 2006 and was re-elected in 2008, 2011 and, most recently, 2015. His involvement within the community is extreme and has touched many individuals throughout the riding. Bev is a business person, understands agriculture and believes Canadian farmers are as efficient as any in the world.

2016 Intern to Larry Maguire, MP for Brandon–Souris, Manitoba. Larry Maguire was first elected as the Member of Parliament for the federal riding of Brandon-Souris on November 25, 2013 and re-elected by over half of all votes cast on October 19, 2015. Larry was born in Souris, Manitoba. Raised by Merle and Fern Maguire, he grew up on the farm and learned the value of hard work. He went to high school in Elgin and Hartney before graduating with a Diploma in Agriculture from the University of Manitoba. He farmed at Elgin until 2002, has lived in Virden, and now makes Brandon his home. First elected as a Progressive Conservative member in 1999, voters returned Larry to the Manitoba Legislature in 2003, 2007 and 2011. While an MLA, Larry served as the critic for Conservation and Water Stewardship; with previous responsibilities for Climate Change; Green Initiatives; Infrastructure and Transportation, Inland Port, Finance, Environment, Intergovernmental Affairs (Rural) and as Deputy Leader in 2006. Following the resignation of the former MP for Brandon-Souris, in a by-election on November 25, 2013 the voters of Brandon-Souris chose Larry as their new Member of Parliament. Throughout his tenure in the House of Commons, he has always stood up for balanced budgets and the importance of spending within our means. He has been tapped to sit on important Standing Committees, such as Agriculture, Human Resources, and Public Safety. Larry is focused on working with provincial, municipal, business and community leaders to continue building on the economic growth our region is experiencing, to find ways to make sure fewer of our friends and neighbours are left behind, and to do all we can to make sure we retain our young people and attract new workers and their families from right across our country and around the world.

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Kingston located about half way between Ottawa and Toronto, is somewhat of a historical city with many well-loved and preserved buildings. Kingston is also nicknamed the "Limestone City" because of the many historic buildings built with local limestone. The former capital of the Province of Canada (1841), Kingston's position at the junction of the Great Lakes and St Lawrence River, its proximity to the border with the United States and the dominance of the Canadian Shield in its surrounding area, have been crucial to its settlement, political and economic history. Kingston is home to the UNESCO World Heritage Site Rideau Canal and Kingston Fortifications, and is adjacent to the UNESCO Frontenac Arch Biosphere. It has 29 National Historic Sites (e.g., the War of 1812 Shipwrecks National Historic Site was added in 2015), three Heritage Conservation Districts (Barriefield, Market Square, Old Sydenham), 635 municipally designated heritage properties and an additional 544 properties listed as having heritage value. Landmarks such as the City Hall, Customs House, Post Office and Murney Tower also reflected the city's history. ■

Outstanding landmark or architecture in Canada: Montréal City Hall is rich both in history and architecture. This is my favorite landmark, because it has a fascinating story behind. In 1967 De Gaulle gave his speech from Montréal City Hall's balcony, where he pronounced scandalous words: "'Vive le Québec libre!" ("Long live free Quebec!"). The phrase, a slogan used by Quebecers who favored Quebec sovereignty, and de Gaulle's use of it, was seen by them as giving his support to the movement. The speech ignited a diplomatic incident with Canada's government, and was condemned by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, saying that "Canadians do not need to be liberated". ■

Interns with MPs & Ministers

Roman Lozynskyy with MP Borys Wrzesnewskij.

Crimean Tatars

May 18, Musfata Djemeliev, Member of Ukraine's Parliament and head of the Crimean Tatars met with Prime Minister Justin Trudeau. Afterwards CUPP Interns, on the steps of Parliament, were joined by MPs Wayne Stetski, Robert-Falcon Ouellette, Kerry Diotte, Linda Duncan, Borys Wrzesnewskyj, Jim Eglinski, James Bezan, and Ambassador Andriy Shevchenko to commemorate the 72 anniversary of the forced deportation of Crimean Tatars by the regime of Jos Stalin.

"I would like to thank you for giving me this opportunity to become a CUPP Intern. This 2-months experience in Canada was a life-changing moment that I am going to use wisely in my future.

I managed to see how the rule of law works and what the real legal culture means.

My work at the office of MP Jim Eglinski inspired and motivated me to strive for more achievements."

Maria Ihnatova (CUPP 2016)
Intern to Jim Eglinski

"It's beginning to dawn on me, where we have spent the past two months. The learning experience, to work in Parliament is unfathomable. The chance of a lifetime is becoming real and understandable".

Sviatoslav Kokhan (at Pearson Airport),
(CUPP 2016)
Intern to the Hon. Mary-Ann Myhichuck

Prayer for Peace

May 30, CUPP Interns organized the Inter-Faith Prayer for Peace in Ukraine and throughout the World at the Eternal Flame in front of Parliament. They were joined by Rev. Peter Galadza (Sheptytsky Institute); Rabbi Dr. Reuven P. Bulka, Congregational Machzikei Hadas; Imam Samy Metwally, Ottawa Muslim Association; Rev. Dr. Scott Kindre-Barnes, First Baptist Church, Ottawa; Rev. Fr. Zenon Hentosz, Chaplain Ottawa Catholic School Board; Ihor Bardyn, CUPP Director; MP Harold Albrecht; Rev. Ihor Okhrimchouk; Rev., MP Kerry Diotte; MP Cathay Wagnall; Mark Warawa; Brother Guram Madari.

Interns with MPs

Yaroslav Melekh with MP Arif Virani.

Ukrainian Day on Parliament Hill

CUPP Interns at Ukrainian Day on Parliament Hill, reception in MacDonald Building were joined by MPs and Guests: Jim Eglinski, Arif Virani, Cathay Wagantall, Linda Duncan, George Tatarashvili (CUPP 2004), David Yurdiga, Wayne Stetski, Bob Saroya, Borys Wrzesnewskyj, James Bezan, Deepak Obhrai, Ted Falk, Harold Albrecht, Kevin Waugh, Robert Sopuck, Ben Lobb, Peter Kent, Colin Carrie, Erin Weir, Mark Warawa, Larry Maguire, Don Rusnak, James Maloney, Andrei Bezruchonak (CUPP 2012, Minsk, Belarus), James Maloney.

Today everything is different from the past few months of my life. Walking around the streets it is clear to see that Ukraine is so beautiful in the summer: so green, so sunny, fresh and flourishing. Actually it doesn't seem much different from Ottawa, which I fell in love with from the very first day. However, the key thing, which I noticed to be different, is the sadness and tiredness in the eyes of the people on the streets. For me this is the major difference between Canada and Ukraine. The quality of infrastructure is not as important to me as the general mood of the citizens.

I can understand that people in Ukraine have daily problems, which unfortunately don't allow them to simply enjoy life, and it is not their fault. For them, Ukraine is a country in which they must live – struggling from year to year. I don't feel that, because you gave me an opportunity to 'break the border' so I no longer feel that Ukraine is a featureless, forgotten part of Europe.

I believe that one of the great features of my country is the more than one thousand CUPP alumni who for the past 25 years are spreading your beliefs about Ukraine to their families, siblings and friends. We are changing our society to help create healthy, strong-minded Ukrainians. Personally, I became clear with myself: I am Ukrainian and I don't live in a jail where I have to live surrounded by corruption and deception, because I am ready to continue your good work.

Thank you so very much, dear pan Baryn! I hope you continue to inspire others and lead the Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program for many more years! Ukraine needs your aspiration, and your attempts to create a strong, smart, happy society!

CUPP Vyshyvanka Day on Parliament Hill 2016

May 30, Vyshyvanka Day on Parliament Hill. CUPP Interns organized Vyshyvanka Day and invited MPs to attend and wear vyshyvanka shirts. For MPs who did not own a vyshyvanka the Interns arranged for vyshyvankas from the St. Vladimir Ukrainian Museum in Toronto and with assistance of MP Borys Wrzesnewskyj, outfitted over 40 MPs and assistants with vyshyvanka. CUPP Interns were joined in the photos by many MPs including the Prime Minister Justin Trudeau, as well as the Hon. Kent Herr, Hon. Chrystia Freeland, Hon. Ralph Goodale, Hon. Mary-Ann Myhichuk, and MPs Marc Miller, Don Rusnak, Peter Fonseca, Terry Duguid, Yvonne Jones, Sven Spengemann, Kate Young, Pam Goldsmith-Jones, Kyle Peterson, Borys Wrzesnewskyj, Randy Boissonnault, Peter Fragiskatos, James Maloney, Cheryl Gallant, Mark Warawa, Jason Kenney, James Bezan, Jim Eglinski, Robert Sopuck, Erin Weir, Gord Johns, Wayne Stetski, Kevin Lamoureux, Senator Raynell Andreychuk, Senator Denise Batters, Julie Dzerowicz, Guests Taylor Hunt (Canada-USA Internship Program), Ambassador Andriy Shevchenko, Borys Gengalo, Danylo Korbabic, Yuri Derkach, Rosalia Fedak, Maria Podeiko, Maria Lechowich, Lubomyr Chabursky.

"It's been two weeks since the program has come to its end, and I wanted to share my reflections with you.

First of all, let me thank you for everything you are doing for the program, for every intern, and, thus, for Ukraine in general. I know you've heard lots of "thank you" words after each program, but I will keep sending more, because people like you need to be reminded about an amazing impact they are having on us, the alumni, and on Ukrainian society. When I met with Andriy Pivovarskiy, CUPP alumnus and former Minister of Infrastructure, he told me that CUPP experience led him through his whole career. And same will happen to us, fresh alumni of CUPP 2016. I have no doubt in this.

Most of all, thank you for bringing all of these wonderful 33 interns together. I think the most important result of this program is this amazing network of alumni – people who are united by a shared experience which other students who are not CUPPers cannot relate to. As I said during our farewell dinner, "CUPP is about building bridges. Bridges between Canada and Ukraine, between Ukraine and Ukrainian diaspora in Canada, between different parts of Ukraine, represented by 33 Ukrainian interns. Wherever we end up in our life, we will all have a shared memory of our experience on Parliament Hill and, at the same time, a shared responsibility to make a change in Ukraine and for Ukraine."

It's this feeling when you meet Andriy Pivovarskiy – and he is not only a former Minister, he is a CUPPer, and this is what matters the most :) Thank you for all of the friends I acquired during the internship. Those ties are the strongest ones!

Also, I want to thank you for the office I was interning in. I don't know how you assign interns and what is the system of deciding who goes to whose office, but I was lucky. I was truly lucky to get to the office of Bob Saroya, MP for Markham – Unionville. Although he is a newly elected MP, his staff and Bob himself were enormously helpful and ready to answer all of my numerous questions. There were several things that made this experience so rewarding. First of all, I was doing a real job! I was preparing witness backgrounders, doing researches on various topics, learning how to do media scan, visiting meetings of the Committee on Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship with my MP and many others. This is a truly amazing feeling to be a part of the team, a part of the office, and a real staff member. And this is the second thing I liked about my experience – I felt included, not like an intern, but as if I were working in the office. The third thing, which I think is the most important, – I felt my MP's support during the whole period of my internship. He was always there for me – ready to answer questions, talk to me about his beliefs, ask for my opinion and give advice. He didn't miss a single Ukrainian event on the Hill. He came for Vyshyvanka Day, though the Ukrainian shirt didn't fit him. He came and was there for me at the Ukrainian Day, though he had a long day and voting in the House. Bob Saroya is amazing, and so are the members of his team. So if you have a chance to place another CUPP intern to his office in the future, I highly recommend him."

Meeting with Speaker of the House of Commons Geoff Regan

"I enjoy my job most of the time", the Hon. Geoff Regan described his job as a Speaker of the House of Commons.

What are the main responsibilities of the Speaker? How does the Speaker stay impartial? What are the challenges he/she faces on everyday basis? On May 13, CUPP interns met with the Hon. Geoff Regan, Speaker of the House of Commons, to get answers to these questions.

Geoff Regan was elected as the 36th Speaker of the House of Commons, the first from Atlantic Canada in almost a hundred years, on Dec. 3, 2015. He has served in Parliament since 1993, when was first elected as the Member from Halifax West, Nova Scotia. Regan later held different positions in government and in opposition, including his role as Parliamentary Secretary to the Leader of the Government in the House of Commons (2001-2003), Minister of Fisheries and Oceans (2003-2006), Vice-Chair of the Standing Committee on Natural Resources (2008-2011).

Speaker Regan told CUPP interns, that traditionally a job of a Speaker of the House of Commons was not desirable and he or she would be dragged to their chair. This practice comes from British parliamentary tradition, when Speakers risked execution if the news they reported to the King or Queen was displeasing. A ceremony of escorting a Speaker to his or her seat by the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition is still alive in Canada and much depends on artistic skills of a newly elected Speaker, who would have to feign reluctance to take up the chair.

In fact, every Member of Parliament in Canada, who is not a Cabinet minister, is automatically a candidate for the Speaker's position. Thus, those who don't remove their name from the ballot are listed as candidates and are allowed a five-minute speech to persuade their colleagues as to why they should be elected. Through a secret ballot the Speaker should get a majority of votes in order to be selected for the position.

Though speakership is an honourable position, it involves everyday responsibilities. Speaker Regan pointed out three of them, namely, presiding in the House of Commons, administrative duties and international diplomacy. Apart from that, A Speaker of the House of Commons is an MP who works for his constituency. Still, the main responsibility of the Speaker is to maintain a sound atmosphere in the House in order to ensure constructive debate. When comparing House debate to a soccer game, Regan admitted he only interferes with a debate when it goes out of order, because after all “you do not come to watch a referee.”

Speaker Regan agrees that his job is demanding and involves, one of them being impartiality. To preserve the trust of the House, the Speaker's actions must be impartial. This means, the Speaker never participates in debate and only votes in case of a tie.

He works to balance the right of the Government to transact business in an orderly manner and the right of all Members to be heard in debate. As Speaker Regan stated, “When you think of the time people have been around on the planet, democracy is like a blink of an eye”. It is a solemn goal of the Speaker to preserve integrity of the House of Commons debate. ■

Meeting with MP Bob Bratina

One of the most memorable experiences the CUPP program has to offer is the opportunity to attend meetings with MPs from different parties, senators and representatives of various government departments and agencies. Every such meeting teaches us how the Canadian Parliament functions on a day-to-day basis.

So far, one of the most memorable meetings we had was with MP Bob Bratina. At the outset of the meeting, Mr. Bratina managed to keep everyone's attention with his deep knowledge of Canadian history, speaking about historical events that shaped current political traditions and work environment of the Canadian parliament and government. Bob Bratina has shared with us his personal experiences and stories, thus, creating an image of a modern politician that all of us want to look up to. He explained the importance of obtaining both necessary working experience and educational qualifications before taking responsibilities for the well-being of other people. In addition, he has highlighted the importance of always keeping in mind the nature of politics and the role of a modern politician today.

"We must never put ourselves above other people". A politician must serve the people and in return he will become respected person. This respect should drive one to become a politician. That said, it is also the love for the country and its people that make a good modern politician and that is what characterizes Bob Bratina and makes him an outstanding member of the parliament. ■

The Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program is not only about doing an internship in the Parliament, receiving new experience and learning soft skills. This program is also about networking and getting to know inspirational people that can influence the way you perceive the world around you. One of such meetings that CUPP interns 2016 were fortunate to attend was a informal get-together in the Ukrainian Embassy. Upon entering the Embassy, we found ourselves on the premises of Ukraine, which was pretty exciting since we literally felt at home. Warm welcoming words, hospitable atmosphere and melodic Ukrainian language spoken by someone other than us made us unwind for a moment. Our meeting started with a welcoming speech Andriy Shevchenko, the Ambassador of Ukraine to Canada. He introduced us to his team of professionals and shed light on the work they are doing at the Embassy. Mr. Shevchenko was eager to inform everyone on the objectives the Embassy was trying to reach. Moreover, we discussed how we as interns could help Canadians learn more about our country. Also, during this conversation we touched upon such issues as the Canada-Ukraine Free Trade Agreement, imprisonment and release of Nadia Savchenko, Crimea and Crimean Tatars, Russian intervention in Donbas, visa liberalization for Ukrainian citizens travelling to Canada. Despite some negative issues that we covered in our talks, we also had a chance to discuss what steps Ukraine is now taking and what reforms are being carried out in order to transform it into a more attractive country to investors. Afterwards, everyone was invited to grab a bite and mingle. We got acquainted with Embassy workers and simply chatted feeling at ease.

In a nutshell, this 2-hour meeting turned out to be not only informative, but also full of sincere storytelling. We drew some inspiration in order to keep spreading the word about Ukraine and promoting its positive image. ■

Meeting with The Honourable Ed Fast

Oleh FEDAY

CUPP interns had the pleasure of meeting The Honourable Ed Fast who was appointed to the Standing Committee of Canadian Heritage and the Standing Committee for Transport, Infrastructure and Communities during his first term and later in 2011, Mr. Fast was appointed Minister of International Trade by Prime Minister Harper.

Our meeting was informal in its nature as Mr. Fast was in a rush and he only had thirty or so minutes to address our questions and tell us about his work on the Hill. He began his talk on international trade, his work on various free trade agreements and their relation to Canadian and global economies. Mr. Fast is very fond of FTA's, however he underlined the importance of frameworks, legal and legislation systems behind them. The same principles applied when he talked about Petition-33. He said that Ukraine needs to improve its current visa acceptance rate before such petition could be passed as it could harm both Canada and Ukraine. When answering questions about the free trade agreement between Canada and Ukraine, Mr. Fast told us that he was a strong supporter, but also noted that this agreement is more beneficial to Ukraine than it is to Canada and that Ukrainians should welcome this idea. When working on the agreement.

Another topic of interest was Canada – Russia relations in regards to the new Liberal Government. Mr. Fast said that his government has always been supportive of Ukraine and was one of the first countries to place sanctions on Russia. However, he is not certain of the Liberal Government stand on Russia, but he foresees changes in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs that could be more beneficial to Russia rather than Ukraine. He then said that the Conservative government stands behind the territorial sovereignty of Ukraine and the annexation of Crimea is simply unacceptable. ■

On National Vyshyvanka Day CUPP interns had a very special meeting with The Minister of Small Business and Tourism The Honourable Bardish Chagger. She is a young, ambitious and energetic woman whose energy was spread all around the room. Furthermore, she showed her great respect to Ukrainian traditions by wearing Vyshyvanka on that day.

Ms. Chagger makes an impression of a very smart and strong woman. She proves it by what she is doing and the result of her work also shows that she is very competent and professional. At the meeting, Chagger said that she felt really lucky to have a job that doesn't feel like work. For her, politics has been such a big part of her life it's almost a hobby. Ms. Chagger is a natural leader who has a deep understanding of the issues that are important to Canadians. She works hard to foster diversity within the community providing opportunities for social and economic engagement, including manufacturing, technology and innovation. We had a chance to meet Ms. Chagger at many events in the Parliament and to listen to her speeches. She was very passionate about her work and future ideas.

We appreciated that Ms. Chagger made this meeting informal allowing for a free flow of conversation and information. Minister Chagger was very sincere and easygoing. She told us about her parents and her childhood. Ms. Chagger is very proud of her parents' Indian heritage. However, she said that her identity has always been Canadian. We've heard many funny stories and each of us have gained some personal experience from that communication. Minister Chagger became a great inspiration for such young people as us and she managed to ignite the lights in each of us which, I'm sure, will lead us to a great success in our communities. ■

On April 20th, 2016 interns of the 25th Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program, coming from Ukrainian and European seats of learning had an incredible opportunity to meet with the interim leader of the Conservative Party of Canada and an Official Leader of the Opposition, the Honourable Rona Ambrose.

During an animated conversation, Ukrainian interns found out that Ms. Ambrose held several cabinet positions in spheres of Environment, Intergovernmental Affairs, Western Economic Diversification, Labour, Public Works and Government Services Canada, Receiver General, Status of Women, Regional Minister of Northern Alberta, and Health before becoming the interim leader of the Conservative party of Canada. Another outstanding fact about Ms. Ambrose is that when appointed to be a Minister of Environment in 2006, she appeared to be the youngest woman to be appointed to the Cabinet in Canadian history. As Environment Minister, Ms. Ambrose introduced the Clean Air Act (CAA) and called for a new international agreement, which would include all major emitters, a position now adopted by the international community in the Copenhagen Accord. As Minister for the Status of Women, she worked tirelessly to address the problem of violence against women and girls. She has shown leadership by raising awareness of "honour killings" in Canada and promoting equal rights for aboriginal women. Ms. Ambrose has shown to CUPP interns that she is an outgoing leader in many ways, especially when it comes to her approach towards parliamentary politics. She manages to combine a strong standpoint against the members of the opposing party, while maintaining a deep respect towards them and their opinions at the same time. She has explained that after all, the work which is done on Parliament Hill is for the good of the Canadian people no matter which party it comes from.

Ms. Ambrose has set a fine example of a leader. However, she points out that “human touch” is no less important asset, as it creates a circle of trust between her and people whom she serves. She has brilliantly demonstrated it by expressing a great interest in Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program and Ukrainian society.

Finally, Ms. Ambrose has expressed her great support towards Ukraine and its issues. She stated that the relationship between Canada and Ukraine has always been of great importance for both countries.

Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program interns are very grateful to the Honourable Rona Ambrose for the opportunity to meet with such an outstanding leader, who taught extremely valuable lessons and inspired us to move forward. ■

Meeting with MP James Bezan

CUPP interns were lucky to attend the meeting with a true friend of Ukraine and an exemplary politician Hon James Bezan, Member of Parliament for Selkirk–Interlake and Her Majesty’s Official Opposition Critic for National Defence. Mr. Bezan found sufficient time to impressively address most of our questions on the variety of issues during a very schedule-tight day, and coincidentally his own birthday. As the group had a chance to meet with James on some occasions before, the meeting was held on a very friendly, informal and productive tone. So, after birthday wishes we dived into a constructive discussion.

We touched the questions related to the Canadian security and foreign policy. It was very exciting to discuss major issues with someone who has an important role in constructing the policy agenda, has own independent vision on the course that Canada should pursue. Instead, James Bezan has been very proactive in his positions. And not only in his special field of interest. He created and supported several crucial legislation in other directions than military, amongst them, a M-309 motion – aiming to increase benefits for parents of critically ill children, and a number of other Private Member’s Bill.

One of the major contributions on behalf of Ukraine on James’s list was passing the bill in the 39th Parliament which established “Holodomor” – Ukrainian Famine of 1932-33 as an act of genocide. Given his extensive and firm support to Ukraine and criticism of the architect of problems coming from Russia, Vladimir Putin, James was given a “badge of honour” in 2014 – a ban from travelling to Russia.

In addition to the situation in the Eastern Ukraine, the discussion headed towards the future of Ukraine. James reflected that he believed the passion of the Ukrainians at work will be one of the strong sides for the prosperous future. He mentioned that he noticed great opportunities in agriculture, information technologies and infrastructure segments in Ukraine, and thinks we should work on those. As a person who had an opportunity to speak in private to the three last Ukrainian presidents, and engage into projects connected to Ukraine we sometimes had a feeling that Mr. Bezan knows about Ukrainian politics more than we do.

What impressed our interns most, however, during the discussion was James's openness, proficiency and reasonability. He is one of those politicians who knows what he is doing. And he is doing it for a greater cause, for the people, for Canada and for Ukraine. And this is exactly what we are grateful for. ■

On May 12th, 2016, CUPP-2016 Interns, after a lot of meetings with Senators, MP's, and other distinguished persons, met with the Honorable Jason Kenney.

Having heard a lot of wonderful and exciting things about Jason Kenney from the interns Dmytro Tkachuk and Evelina Ibrayimova who work in his office, we expected nothing less than a productive and interesting talk. Indeed, the meeting, to say the least, lived up to our expectations, and even exceeded them.

Mr. Kenney is one of the top MP's of the Conservative party. Having worked in this sphere for quite a long time, he has a very special insight into the world of politics, which he eagerly shared with us. Since the Honorable Jason Kenney has worked in three different spheres, namely, citizenship and immigration, employment, and national defense and multiculturalism, his perspective and experience provoked many questions from the interns. Thankfully, most of them were answered, as Mr. Kenney even agreed to prolong the allocated time.

The questions were of various nature, and related to Mr. Kenney's position regarding the revoking of the citizenship for the people involved in separatist activities; his favorite sphere of work during the last 15 years; opinion regarding the refugee crisis. Apart from that, interns were interested in hearing the thoughts of how Ukraine can strengthen its position through the sphere of communication. In this regard the MP emphasized that Ukraine should not only focus on tragedies and suffering, although history should be repeatedly presented to the world, but also work on progress and reforms, forming the face of a new and strong Ukraine.

The list of the abovementioned questions is exhaustive to say the least. It was impressive that Mr. Kenney could give a very structured, full with the knowledge of the subject, answer. Apart from that, when the questions touched the decisions that the Honorable Jason Kenney had to make throughout the political career, he convincingly demonstrated that he has always done what he believed was right and good, and not what could boost his career but bring disastrous consequences for the people and the state.

Finally, Mr. Kenney stressed that "My goal in politics is not to inspire some higher office – its empty ambition. My goal is to achieve great things." Over the course of elaboration on this topic the Honorable Jason Kenney explained that he is not driven by the personal ambition, but by the convictions for which he stands. This powerful message led us to thinking that Ukraine would highly benefit from the politicians with the similar values and beliefs.

The interns were impressed by Mr. Kenney's address and concluded that he was one of the most impressive and able MPs they had met.

CUPPers-2016 are very grateful to have had a meeting with the Honorable Jason Kenney, whose answers were open and honest, which was greatly appreciated. ■

Meeting with MP Borys Wrzesnewskij

Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program has many partners and concerned people, who believe in the importance of this program. One of the good friends of our program is Borys Wrzesnewskij, MP for Toronto.

Borys always supports Ukrainians in their struggle for independence and democracy. Especially noticeable was his help during the Orange Revolution, when Boris organized hundreds of observers from Canada to Ukraine presidential election. Currently Borys is the chairman of the Committee on immigration and citizenship in the Canadian Parliament, and actively communicates information about the actions in Ukraine. In addition Borys is the chairman of Canada-Ukraine Friendship group which supports all initiatives regarding to the development of Ukraine-Canada relations.

On May 4th, Borys organized a meeting with the interns – a "Piz-za-beer" party, where every supported intern had the opportunity to talk to an experienced politician in an informal setting and get answers to questions.

Borys helped interns in organizing Ukrainian day on Parliament Hill, held on 30 May. The main purpose of the event was the promotion Ukraine among MPs and parliamentary staff and especially satisfying was that this year our event was visited by over a hundred guests, including 30 MPs.

We're very grateful to Mr. Borys Wrzesnewskij for his support and love for Ukraine. ■

Meeting with MP Jim Eglinski

Levko ORSHYNSKY

National University of Kyiv-Mohyla Academy
2016 Intern to Julie Dzerowicz, MP for Davenport, Ontario
Emil Telizyn CUPP Scholarship recipient

On Friday 13th May 2016 CUPP interns met William James "Jim" Eglinski, the most cheerful Member of Parliament we could meet. As it was Friday 13th and most of the interns were tired after another productive day on Parliament Hill everybody expected the meeting to be very formal and we didn't know what was taking place.

When you look at Jim you see a stocky serious man with a military posture and appearance that inspires respect. In fact, it turned out that he is a very simple person in the most positive way as person could be. Jim Eglinski is a member of the Conservative Party of Canada who was elected to represent the riding of Yellowhead in the House of Commons of Canada in the 2015 election and managed to maintain the stronghold by taking 62.6 percent of the vote. Jim was born and raised in Alberta on a farm and that is how he explained his ability to communicate well with different people no matter whether they are other Members of Parliament or ordinary people from his constituency. Prior to his election, he served in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, which he joined at the age of 19 and completed 35 years of service in the Province of British Columbia. After his retirement he continued his public service by serving two terms on Council for the City of Fort St. John, B.C.

In the meeting with CUPP interns Mr. Eglinski greeted each intern personally shaking hands and. Everybody was hungry, so Mr. Eglinski offered pizza to interns and only when everybody finished eating the fascinating conversation started.

Firstly, Jim told us about his life path and background so we could understand that his career success is a result of hard work and each of us can reach same goals in life. Afterwards he explained how he is dealing with his duties and the main point was importance of the cooperation and dialogue with the people in his constituency. The ability to understand people and to help them as Mr. Eglinski mentioned is a key what makes him very likeable.

"You just have to talk to people, approach their small communities. Never think that you are better than anybody else. Treat everybody the way you want to be treated." – the words of wisdom and inspiration from Jim that gives a great understanding how personalized Canadian government is and how this approach positively affects people's lives.

I am glad that CUPPers 2016 interns met with Jim Eglinski. ■

A Tour to the Supreme Court of Canada

The beginning of the 2016 Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program was marked, among other things, by the visit of interns to the Supreme Court of Canada, which is the highest court of the country. For me and several other interns who have already obtained or are obtaining law degree, this was a unique opportunity to get acquainted with the common-law system of Canada, which differs so much from the continental law system of Ukraine.

As soon as we entered the Court, I was amazed by the beauty of its premises and a truly historical atmosphere prevailing in its halls. Our tour started with a small introduction to the judiciary system of Canada in general followed by a session of questions from the interns. During this session we found out about the history of the Supreme Court of Canada, the structure of the Canadian court system, procedures of the Court and justice appointments in Canada. It was very interesting to know that the Canadian judicial system may be seen as constituting a pyramid, with a broad base formed by the provincial and territorial courts, and the Supreme Court of Canada sits at the top of the pyramid, being Canada's final court of appeal. After that, we moved to the main session hall of the Court where our guide explained us more about the day-to-day work of the Court and its current judges. In particular, we were told that the Supreme Court of Canada consists of the Chief Justice of Canada and eight puisne judges appointed by the Governor in Council. Interesting fact is that the word "puisne" is derived from the ancient French word "puiné", which means "younger". It is used at the Court to distinguish the Chief Justice from the other judges.

Personally, I was happy to find out that current Chief Justice of Canada (who chairs the Court) is Beverley McLachlin, PC, the first woman to hold this position, and the longest serving Chief Justice of Canada in history. This has once again convinced me that Canada is the country of equal rights and opportunities for everyone, regardless of one's sex, age, nationality or political views. ■

The Canada-Ukraine Business Forum was held in Toronto on June 20, 2016. The Ukrainian Delegation included Infrastructure, Transportation and Logistics Minister Volodymyr Omelian (CUPP 1999). At the opening of the session, he stated, "In 1999 as a student who was chosen to serve an internship in the Canadian Parliament, I underwent an internal transformation. I became convinced that Ukraine can change and that I would become involved in that important transformational change. Thank you Pane Bardyn."

CUPP Interns Meeting with Auditor General of Canada

It was an honour for CUPP interns to meet with Mr. Michael Ferguson who has been served as the Auditor General of Canada since November, 2011. According to Canadian legislation, his mandate is designed for 10 years.

Despite the fact of an extremely intense schedule, our group had very fruitful and open 90-minute discussion about the details of auditing & revision of public accounts of the federal government and crown corporations.

Mr. Ferguson began our meeting by explaining to us main responsibilities of the Auditor General Office, and its mandate to govern the Nunavut, the Yukon, the Northwest Territories and territorial corporations and agencies. The Office of the Auditor General has 3 main fields of activities: financial audits, performance audit and special examinations.

Later on we had many questions answered. In particular, CUPP interns were interested in the system of checks & balances of the Office of Auditor General. Mr. Ferguson mentioned that, according to the Canadian law, the Auditor General is appointed by the federal government. As for transparency and controlling, the Auditor General is supervised by the Board. Also, in case of wrongdoings the Auditor General co-operates with the Office of the Attorney General of Canada. Overall, the mandate for his position has no commitment to report to any branches of power. For effectiveness of this model questioned by Ukrainian interns, Mr. Ferguson emphasised that this model can be only successful in case of strong tradition and trust culture. Otherwise, said Mr. Auditor General, there is no point to have such a counterbalancing institution among the branches of power.

Later on Mr. Ferguson was asked about the «Big Fish» cases during his service in the Office and a special mandate for intervention into revising of business of the Senate. Additionally, the Auditor General told us about the outcomes of the activities of the Office. In particular, Mr. Ferguson mentioned about delivering of auditing results as well as providing recommendations on improvement of the federal government agencies and crown corporations.

Finally, we discussed additional activities of the Office of the Auditor General such as cooperation with consulting and accounting firms and non-partisanship. The meeting was very intense and productive, so a number of people asked about further internship opportunities for CUPP interns.

Personally, given my professional background in accounting & auditing and my interest in public sector, I found this meeting very relevant for myself as well as for our group. I believe, all of us have got some takeaways in terms of better understanding of auditing and revision of public spending's and what could be improved back in Ukraine. ■

Canadian Mother to Ukraine: Meeting with the Senator Raynell Andreychuk

Oleksandra SUPRUN

University of Glasgow, United Kingdom

University of Turku, Finland

Taras Shevchenko National University of Kyiv, Ukraine

2016 Intern to the Hon. MaryAnn Mihychuk, MP for Kildonan–St. Paul, Manitoba

Michael Starr CUPP Scholarship recipient

The senator was waiting for the interns to arrive in a spacious conference room located on the ground floor of the oldest Parliament building – East Bloc. She looked stunning in her stylish peach colour skirt suit and with immaculate hairstyle. She kindly greeted the interns and willing to chat with everyone, creating a natural and welcoming atmosphere. Senator Raynell Andreychuk could be worthily called Ukraine's best friend in Canada. During her years in politics she has done an invaluable able job promoting democratic development and strengthening civil society in Ukraine. For her support and devotion to the country of her ancestry, the Senator was banned from traveling to Russia under retaliatory sanctions imposed by Russian President Vladimir Putin in March 2014.

She was born in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, the Province with the highest percentage of Ukrainians in Canada, with over 27% in some ridings, to a family of peasants. With a Bachelor's degree in law from the University of Saskatchewan she has worked as a practicing lawyer for about 20 years, before she was appointed associate deputy minister of social services in the local government. She has served in various positions in the diplomatic sphere, including as Canada's High Commissioner to Kenya and Uganda, ambassador to Somalia and the Comoros, and to Portugal and eventually Canada's permanent representative to the United Nations Environmental Programme, the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, and the United Nations Human Rights Commission.

Her invaluable legal and diplomatic experience resulted in her being called to the Senate by Governor General Ray Hnatyshyn, her compatriot, on the advice of Prime Minister Brian Mulroney. Thus, she became the first woman from Saskatchewan to serve as a senator. Celebrating her Ukrainian roots, Senator Andreychuk has always been an active member in the Ukrainian Canadian community. She urged recognition of the Ukrainian famine 1932-1933 as genocide and established a Ukrainian Famine and Genocide (Holodomor) Memorial Day. In September 2013, she was awarded the St. Volodymyr the Great Medal, the highest award of the Ukrainian World Congress, in recognition of her contributions to the defence of fundamental human rights and freedoms, and furthering democracy in Ukraine.

Over the years she has also held a membership in the Ukrainian Canadian Congress, Ukrainian Business and Professional Club. Senator Andreychuk was also the Honorary Chair of the Ukrainian Canadian Congress 75th Anniversary Commemoration of Holodomor activities in Canada. She is currently Honorary Patron of the Kobzar Literary Award, established by the Shevchenko Foundation.

Since the independence of Ukraine, Senator Andreychuk has been a member and Chair of the Canada-Ukraine Legislative Project, and remains a Vice-Chair of the Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Friendship Group.

In June 2010, Senator Andreychuk was awarded the World Federation of Ukrainian Women's Organizations' Woman of Distinction Award, for her dedication and commitment to promoting freedom, democracy and human rights throughout the world.

In May 2008 Senator Andreychuk was awarded the Order of Prince Yaroslav the Wise medal, for her substantial contribution in the development of Ukrainian-Canadian relations. She is also a recipient of the Taras Shevchenko Medal, the Ukrainian Nation Builders Award, and a Special Lifetime Achievement Award from the Ukrainian Canadian Professional and Business Association of Calgary.

During her presentation to the interns, Senator Andreychuk talked about her family, childhood, and of the importance of Ukrainian in her life. She also informed us as to the structure and main functions of the Senate. Each of the four main regions (Ontario, Quebec, Maritime and Western provinces) is assigned to 24 seats, while the rest is divided between the smaller ones. Thus, the Senate consists of 105 members, who are appointed by the General Governor lifelong, but have right to serve until the age of 75.

For legislation to be passed, the approval of both chambers, the Senate and the House of Commons, is required. Although it does not happen too often, the Senate can reject bills passed by the parliamentarians. The Senator emphasized the importance of multi-lateral approaches to analysing each draft and persistence in proving the outcome.

Raynell Andreychuk also told us the story of 'the Famous Five' (Emily Murphy, Irene Marryat Parlyby, Nellie Mooney McClung, Louise Crummy McKinney and Henrietta Muir Edwards) and their fight for women's rights to be appointed to the Senate, as until 1930th the upper Chamber was entirely male dominated. A petition was drafted to ask the question: 'Does the word 'Persons' in Section 24 of the British North America Act, 1867, include female persons?' The Person's Case, as it was later titled, was revised in the 1929 and women finally gained their right to be elected as senators with the first to be elected Cairine Reay Wilson, a Quebecer. Nearly 80 years later, on 8 October 2009, the Senate voted to make the five the first 'honorary senators'.

The Senator ended the meeting with her personal 'question period'. Answering questions on various topics ranging from internal governance and the Ukrainian police, to foreign policy of Ukraine and situation in the Middle East, she graciously answered so many questions, that the meeting over-ran by 15 minutes, consequently making the ambassador of Kuwait, whom she had a meeting arranged with, wait for her.

She spoke with the interns warmly, with love and compassion in her voice as if she was a caring mother to the very last of us; the same way as she has always been to Ukraine. ■

Meeting with German Ambassador Werner Wnendt

The interns of Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program were honored to have a meeting with the Ambassador of the Federal Republic of Germany to Canada, Werner Wnendt.

Mr. Werner Wnendt previously served as Assistant Deputy Minister for Culture and Communication at the Federal Foreign Office in Berlin. Mr. Wnendt was Head of the OSCE Mission in Kosovo, having previously completed an assignment as Senior Deputy High Representative of the International Community to Bosnia and Herzegovina from 2003 to 2005.

Our meeting with Ambassador Werner Wnendt was of a significant importance, since Germany plays an important role in responding to the crisis in Ukraine. Many interns had a concern of whether it is possible for Germany to cease the sanctions against certain Russian individuals and entities. The Ambassador reassured us, that Germany will continue to support Ukraine and will keep their sanctions against Russia until the Minsk Agreements will be fulfilled, that Germany will never accept armed takeover of Crimea, and Russian aggression in the Eastern Ukraine. Chancellor of Germany, Angela Merkel, in fact got the EU to unanimously agree to impose sanctions on Russian individuals and entities, and hopefully the EU will remain being united in support for Ukraine.

Therefore, we are very thankful to Ambassador Werner Wnendt for his time and sharing his knowledge and experience with us. I do believe that many interns want their work to be connected with EU law, EU relationships, and I am sure that this was not the last our meeting with a representative of the Federal Republic of Germany. ■

Meeting with Speaker of Senate George Furey

The interns of Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program were honored to have a meeting with a Speaker of Senate George Furey, whose major duty is to preside over the Senate's proceedings, to ensure the orderly flow of debate, and to interpret parliamentary rules. After introducing himself, Mr. George Furey explained the role of Senate in Canada and the symbols which one can find in the Senate Chamber.

The Senate, or the upper house in Canada's bicameral parliamentary democracy, is a place where senators from Canada's provinces and territories meet to consider and debate legislation. Its leading role is to provide Parliament with a second chance to consider bills before they are passed. Besides, Senators may pass bills, propose amendments to them or vote to defeat them.

It is necessary to emphasize that Senate proceedings are open to the public, thus everyone has an opportunity to listen to the debates in both official languages, English and French.

As Mr. George Furey has explained the Senate Chamber is adorned with artistic expressions in order to remind the senators of all the people and country they serve. The coffered ceiling depicts the French fleur-de-lys, the English lion, the Irish harp, the Welsh dragon, the Scottish thistle, together with Canadian maple leaves which reflect the nationalities of Canada's early European settlers. The interns had a chance to ask all the questions they were interested in, particularly one of them was on how to make the Senate even more democratic. Mr. George Furey emphasized that certain changes have already been made, such as the creation of a team by PM Justin Trudeau, which will select Senate candidates. The effectiveness of this process prescribes that Candidates will have to meet specific standards, including a demonstrated record of achievement and leadership.

Therefore, the meeting was very educational and we all are very thankful to Mr. George Furey for his time and sharing his knowledge and experience with us. ■

Library of Parliament: Research, Analysis, Education

When one thinks of research, writing a piece or simply gaining in-depth knowledge on certain topic – library always pops up in mind. Interns of Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program are lucky enough to visit and make use of the Parliamentary Library during their internship in Ottawa.

History of the Parliamentary Library stems from legislative libraries which were first formed in 1790s. Since the provincial capitals were changing until 1867, the Library always followed the parliament: from Kingston to Montreal to Quebec city and finally settled in Ottawa. The Library managed to live through the fire of 1916 thanks to iron doors which prevented the fire from breaking in.

The Library of Parliament primarily serves as a source of research. However, in the last decades it obtained the analysis mandate, which means that library analysts do research on certain topics if requested by the Members of Parliament. Besides, the library offers a range of educational trainings and lectures on current issues for parliamentary staff including interns. For example, on April, 21 the interns of Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program attended the lecture regarding Special session of the UN General Assembly on the world drug problem.

The sources of the Library are being constantly accumulated and often used by the members of parliament in their work.

Interns of Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program had a chance to meet Sonia L'Heureux, the first woman appointed as Parliamentary Librarian. It was an honor to present volumes of CUPP newsletters collection for the last 25 years of program's life.

Sonia L'Heureux shared some insights with us regarding her work in the Library of Parliament:

How does it feel to be the first woman appointed as head of the Parliamentary Library?

– I feel it has been a good assignment. There was often male-dominated environment at my previous workplaces, however, there is good gender balance here. In fact, gender balance has existed at the executive level of Parliamentary Library for about last 10 years.

What has been the biggest breakthrough in the Library's development since it was founded?

– I would say, it's the analytical work we do. About 50 years ago the Library of Parliament was mandated with doing analytical work for parliamentarians and committees. That means we shifted from just collecting information to explaining in detail what it means.

Do you see many interns working at the library?

– Yes, I see interns quite often here. Members of Parliament usually ask them to connect with us and find information. For us there is no difference between Members of Parliament and staff in their offices. If there is a need, we provide for it.

What changes does the Parliamentary Library have to go through now?

– First of all, the way people work with information is changing very quickly. We should be able to anticipate how people will work in 15-20 years from now. I would say, our primary need now is to digitize all information that we have in the library. ■

Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program has opened many doors for 2016 CUPP interns. New doors were opened when we visited the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa. We have been honored and privileged to meet with Political Minister Counselor Mr. Matthew Boyse, who was so kind to answer all our questions and hold a productive meeting.

We took this opportunity to discuss the U.S. relations with Ukraine. In the course of the meeting we exchanged our views regarding the prospects of bilateral interaction in the sphere of national defense.

Special attention was paid to the sanctions which the U.S. has imposed on Russia, when the latter breached its international obligations. All the interns actively participated in the discussion and shared their own thoughts regarding perspectives of the Ukrainian politics. Apart from that the interns also got a chance to find out about the United States and its significant relationship with Canada. Both countries work in tight cooperation, partnership and alliance. We came to realize the United States Embassy in Ottawa creates a bridge between places, people and ideas. This meeting has strengthened our understanding and created a very special understanding of the relationship between the U.S and Ukraine. In the end, Mr. Boyse has expressed his big support and commitment to Ukraine.

The U.S. has had an official diplomatic presence in Canada since 1827. The current Embassy consolidates more than 10 Embassy-related offices and houses more than 200 people. The United States is Canada's single largest trading partner and has many policies and treaties in place to allow for such a strong and long lasting relationship. ■

Ukrainian Parliamentary Interns Inspired by Senate Speaker

Young Ukrainians will return to Europe inspired by Canadian democracy after they met with Speaker of the Senate George Furey.

Speaker Furey addressed 35 Ukrainian interns to share with them the lessons he's gleaned from his years of public service. His invitation to meet and take questions from the interns was fuelled by his own passion for education.

"Having worked in the field of education for several years in Newfoundland and Labrador, I attach a particular importance to educational programs and internships, such as the Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program, as they offer opportunities to gain knowledge, skills and values in a unique way. During your internship, not only will you learn about our political system and how it functions, but it will help you acquire key qualities to become the future leaders and decision makers of your country," shared Speaker Furey during the meeting.

"In Ukraine, we have nothing like this," she said. "Once we're back in Ukraine we'll for sure take part in reforms based on the experiences gained here in Canada."

Evelina Ibraimova said programs like this one are central to Canada's promotion of democracy abroad.

"This program helps us learn from Canada and bring experience and knowledge back home," Ibraimova said. "Lots of former interns in this very program are now in government as ministers or MPs and the majority of us want to pursue careers in public service."

I would like to share my thoughts and impressions on one of the first tours that I've had in Ottawa.

The Centre Block and the Peace Tower probably attract the most attention to those who visit Ottawa. Every tiny detail of the building reflects history, customs and traditions of the country. The gothic architecture impresses with its grandeur. The Centre Block houses the House of Commons, Senate and the Library which all are of the particular interest. The House of Commons is an elected component of the Parliament and what is noticeable from the first sight is the green color of the room, which predominates, whereas the Senate is of the red color, which represents the royalty. There are seats for the Queen, her consort and the Speaker of the Senate which stand out when you come into the Senate. Moreover, there is a sculpture of Queen Victoria, the first queen of Canada, in the Library. The amount of books is so enormous that if you stock them up in a pile, it will probably be more than 7 km long. Furthermore, the traditions are well preserved here. For example, the Speaker of the House of Commons has to be literally dragged into the building. The speakership was considered to be a deadly job in the early days, especially if the speaker had to deliver unwelcome news to the monarch.

Apart from marvelous architecture and traditions, the Queen Victoria painting grasps attention because of one of her hands being shorter than the other. The Queen hated the painting and sent it to Canada. While being shipped, the painting accidentally caught fire 2 times and both 2 times it was saved so that it would be cut out. As a result, half of the crown on the painting cannot be seen.

To conclude, there is a wonderful quote by John Berger: "The relation between what we see and what we know is never settled. Each evening we see the sun set. We know that the earth is turning away from it. Yet the knowledge, the explanation, never quite fits the sight." No matter how much you know about the place, you would not be able to get a full impression without visiting it. ■

One of the best illustrations of close Canada-Ukraine ties is Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Programme (CUPP), which is Canada's first program of assistance to Ukraine. It was initiated in 1990 by Mr. Ihor W. Bardyn, Chair of Ukrainian Studies Foundation of Toronto as a commemoration of the Centennial of Ukrainian group immigrating to Canada.

Maintaining close relations between Canada and Ukraine has always been among the priorities for both countries due to their closely interconnected history. Four waves of migration from Ukraine to Canada resulted in the emergence of the world's second largest Ukrainian diaspora behind that of Russia. Migration started in the year 1892, and accordingly promoted establishment of close ties between Canada and Ukraine developing for over a hundred years.

The very first wave of migration that took place in the 1891-1914 was predominantly agricultural settling around Edmonton and Winnipeg. Similarly the second wave settlers (1923-1939), who were mostly workers and professionals, concentrated in the provinces of Alberta and Manitoba. The third wave of migration that took place between 1945-1961 was mostly settling in Southern Ontario and Quebec, and has contributed greatly to the development of agriculture, forestry, railways and mining. Since the 1991, when independence of Ukraine was proclaimed and the country appeared to be going through deep economic and political crisis, the last wave of migration started, this time, mostly highly qualified specialists or university students settling around Toronto and Montreal. Canada was the first Western country to recognize Ukraine's independence and since then has always been one of its closest allies. The Canadian government demonstrated valuable support to Ukraine from the beginning of Euromaidan and especially Russian intervention. Canada has provided so much needed financial aid for modernization and democratic development, as well as a wide range of humanitarian support: from non-lethal military supplies, to military outfit, and even conducted military trainings for Ukrainian soldiers.

This year is very remarkable for CUPP as it celebrates its 25th Anniversary. Every year CUPP becomes a life changing experience for talented Ukrainian youth and this time it is not an exception. 34 individuals came here to learn, observe and experience the work of one of the most democratic parliaments in the world, feel the atmosphere of rule of law and respect for human rights, meet with locals, taste local cuisine and simply enjoy the lovely city of Ottawa.

The time interns spend in Canada is also a great time to look at our values and reflect on what we can change in order to become better people and citizens of Ukraine. As the result, each intern is able to bring important values and practices, which he or she is gaining during the Internship. By understanding the importance of the contribution and interaction for the Ukrainian future CUPP can have a positive impact on the Ukraine's social, economic and intellectual development.

We see how MPs, Senators and Ministers work, communicate and cooperate with each other and it draws a model of behaviour in our future professional and personal life. We experience Canada in every aspect of life, we interact with Ukrainian diaspora, find a huge support from the Embassy of Ukraine in Canada but what is more important, we all struggle to achieve common goal – retake the positive experience of Canada and then benefit for our Motherland.

Furthermore, some of the interns have an opportunity to be involved in the Canadian community by visiting riding of their Members of Parliament. It is a great chance to look at the communication between politicians and locals, to understand the level of influence on the governmental decisions.

On the basis of this experience, interns as a future leaders will have a chance to implement fresh ideas for the public control of democracy and government in Ukraine which will help to minimize in the future the embarrassing corruption and bribery which spread over Ukraine.

During 25 years, owing to philanthropists within the Ukrainian diaspora in Canada and the USA over a thousand of young talented Ukrainians and 24 Canadian students have already managed to implement their experience working on governmental and parliamentary positions, as well as being involved in the non-governmental sector developing civil society, promoting democratic transformation and establishing open and accountable government in Ukraine.

The significant achievements of the CUPP alumni prove the outstanding success of the program for the democratic development of Ukraine. The Program's founder and Director Mr. Ihor W. Bardyn is doing his best to continue the internship program for at least another 25 years. At the same time, CUPP Alumni together with the current CUPPers are conducting various campaigns in order to make it possible for many more interns to get this unforgettable experience on Parliament Hill and make a real change for the future of Ukraine. ■

Even far from Ukraine CUPP interns had a chance to feel at home by celebrating Easter. Wonderful Ukrainian family of Lubomyr Chabursky hosted us in their house for celebration.

Preparation for Easter has started one day before the holiday with baking traditional Ukrainian paskas and preparing various dishes. We bake and decorated more than 20 paskas.

Early in the morning on Easter CUPPers attended liturgy in church after which we gathered with greetings «Христос Воскрес! Воістину Воскрес!» and spent that special day together. The most touching moment for all was singing together the song «Христос Воскрес!». Andriy Shevchenko, Ukrainian Ambassador to Canada, joined us at this marvelous moment and wished everyone to be strong and intelligent. He said that wherever we will live, we should remember our ancestors and Ukrainian traditions.

At the beginning of the day Lubomyr shared with us 3 wise thoughts:

1. When we create pysanky, we are trying to fill them with diligence and love. Then we give them to others, wishing all the best, happy-ness and goodness. And we should be like our pysanky – we need “to fill” ourselves with diligence and love – and then, by our words and actions, to give others kindness and joy.

2. On this Easter day and on other moments let's pray for the men and women who are currently on the front giving all in order to provide to the rest of the Ukrainian society opportunity to live a family life. Let's think and pray for their families, who are worried about the happy return of their mother, father, sister, brother, daughter or son.

3. Let the joy that we feel on Easter always remain in our lives. How can we do that? Let's embrace each other during the whole year. Let's smile and let's host each other and share kindness and happiness.

And let these three thoughts be always with us.

It was really a great Easter and a wonderful day, which was full of happiness, enthusiasm, friendship and sincerity. We were grateful to each other and to Lubomyr's family for making that day unforgettable. ■

A Tour to the Royal Canadian Mint

Evelina IBRAIMOVA

Taras Shevchenko National University of Kyiv

2016 Intern to the Hon. Jason Kenney, MP for Calgary Midnapore, Alberta

William and Antonina Bazylewicz CUPP Scholarship recipient

How are coins made in Canada? What are the reasons behind their design? During our visit to the Royal Canadian Mint in Ottawa, we discovered the answers to these and many other questions.

For starters, there are several types of coins: regular, or circulation coins that one uses to pay for coffee, as well as collectors and bullion coins that serve as investment instruments. Royal Mint has produced all of the above since 1908.

The complicated process of minting combines human creativeness and automated manufacturing; it differs depending on the function the coin would exercise. Circulation coins' design is all about pragmatism. Ever wondered why the coins have rims? The reason is it helps protect the image from fading. Another example of the minting pragmatism: choice of metal is always based on its endurance and price. A perfect illustration of the rule is phasing out the penny (one cent) since 2013: production costs had come to exceed its face value. For now, Canadians are left with one- and two-dollar coins (dubbed "toonies" for two and "loonies" for loon - a typical Canadian bird depicted on the reverse), as well as quarters, dimes and nickels.

For collector coins, it is the artistic work that matters most. A relevant topic for the coin design is chosen and agreed upon with the Canada's Ministry of Finance, to reflect the government's priorities for the year. A coin's digital prototype is sketched by an artist, with the very first coin of the series minted and improved manually. Once the coin looks perfect, a mold is created for mass production. Depending on the coin's quality, rarity and age, prices may rise up to 55 000 dollars per piece.

Bullion coins' value depends on the metal they are made of and their weight. The process starts with gold, silver, platinum melted into sheets; before the coins are cut, the sheets are curled into impressively looking meter-wide shining coils, each of them worth thousands of dollars.

Most fascinating about the Royal Mint is that symbols are everywhere. Some communicate obvious meanings like maple leaf for Canada, shamrock for the British and fleur-de-lis for the French. However, coins can reflect political trends. British monarchs, heading Canadian state, have featured its coins since the the establishment; starting 2003, Queen Elizabeth has appeared crownless. The revolutionary change was a way to highlight the increasing independence of Canada from its former metropolis.

Vancouver 2010 Olympic medals were produced by Royal Mint, too, and tell a beautiful story rooted in indigenous mythology. Each wavy-shaped Olympic medal is a cropped piece of an aboriginal artwork depicting an orca (whale). The animal stands for team spirit and mutual support. In the same way, the Paralympic medals - each bearing an eye, a contour of a wing or other body elements - form a picture of a raven, if put together as puzzle pieces. The raven is an aboriginal symbol for rising above the challenges.

It is worth noting that Canada's minting industry obtains most of the necessary raw materials e.g. gold and copper from its own mines. This, coupled with manufacturing professionalism is a reason why Canada manufactures coins not only for its own use. The governments of Israel, Ecuador, Malaysia have been among the Royal Mint's clients. ■

CUPP 2016 Interns Participate in Canadian Forces Appreciation Evening: A Brief Overview from Within

It is very important to be a true citizen and patriot of your Homeland but at the same time it is very important to know the history of your nation and those who put their lives for the country you call homeland.

Canadian Forces Appreciation Evening that took place on the 27th of April in Toronto and organised by the Ukrainian War Veterans Association of Canada was aimed to thank to the Canadian Armed Forces for the Canadian Military Training Mission in Ukraine and to express the words of gratitude and appreciation to all the veterans who fought at some moment through history in the Canadian or Ukrainian armies.

The event itself has a very pathetic atmosphere as many things concerning Ukraine-Canadian relations were discussed. Traditionally, the evening was opened with the words of introduction of John Holuk, one of the organisers, followed by the welcoming word delivered by UWVA President Andre Sochaniwsky who also recognized Levko and Marko Orshynski (CUPP 2016 interns and volunteers at military actions in Donbass) among other distinguished guests. It was a pleasure to see MP Borys Wrzesnewskyj representing the Government of Canada and supporting his CUPP 2016 intern Roman Lozyskyy.

Next guest speakers talked more about the real actions Canadian Forces took in the framework of NATO operations in the world and UNIFIER operation to Ukraine. Cdr Pascal Belhumeur CD dwelled upon about the time (2015-2016) when his ship operated in the Med-

LCol Jason Guiney CD and CWO Lewis Lavoie MSM CD elaborated more about their military experience in Ukraine while conducting the UNIFIER operation, namely Canada's military training mission in Ukraine. For their commitment and readiness to support Ukraine they received the award from the Ukrainian War Veterans Association of Canada.

The closing word of gratitude on behalf of Hetman Petro Sahaidachnyi National Army Academy was delivered by Mariia Ihnatova, CUPP 2016 intern to MP Jim Egliniski and reservist with a rank of Lieutenant (junior grade), who one more time stressed on the valuable contribution of Canada in Ukrainian military situation. It should be noted that CUPP 2016 was represented by a wide group of interns, namely Lilia Slobodian, Bozhena Ovcharenko, Volodymyr Kobrin, Marta Basystiuk, Galina

Kaplan, Svitlana Kisilova, Kvitka Krotiuk, Yaroslav Melekh, Sviatoslav Kokhan and Veronika Skip. All of the interns had a nice opportunity to meet the Director of the program Ihor Bardyn and his brother Bob Bardyn.

The event of such magnitude came to its end with performance of national anthems – Ukrainian and Canadian. There is no doubt that this moment will be a lifelong experience to every participant and guest of Canadian Forces Appreciation Evening. ■

Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program on its Quarter Century Pass: Looking Back and Forward

Halyna KAPLAN

2016 Intern to Don Rusnak, MP for Thunder Bay–Rainy River
Myroslawa and John Yaremko CUPP Scholarship recipient

As Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary program approached its 25th anniversary, it's time to look both back for memories and forward for future achievements and successes. We interviewed those who has been involved in the program for years: MPs, senators, CUPP alumni, current interns and one-and-only director Pan Ihor Bardyn. We asked them to share the most remarkable experience CUPP program has brought.

Ihor Bardyn has initiated a program in 1991 after he realized new independent Ukraine needed to get rid of the old Soviet style parliament and to build a new one based on Western values. First three interns came from Kyiv National Taras Shevchenko University and arrived in Ottawa in spring 1991. Since then the geography of CUPP participating universities has significantly broadened, whereas more than 800 people became alumni of CUPP program.

Ihor Bardyn:

– In 1991 as we were celebrating 100th anniversary of first Ukrainian immigration to Canada, I thought why not to open a door of the Canadian parliament for young Ukrainians, so they can come and see the way it works here. Canadian parliament is far from being perfect, but it is way better than what Soviet Union had to offer.

I managed to collect almost $1mln from people I knew. We deposited this money to the bank account to earn some interest. Back in the days interest rates were really high. I was also lucky to have strong tights in the Canadian parliament with representatives of all three parties: Liberal, Conservative and NDP. I approached the speaker of the House of Commons and offered him to established an internship program for Ukrainian students. I now think it was almost a miracle, as we needed only three days to convince Canadian politicians to give us a green light.

Senator Raynell Andreychuk has been appointed to Senate in 1993. She was one of those Ukrainian Canadians who supported the CUPP program at the very start. Apart from helping financially, she also helped advocating the establishment of the program in the Parliament, guiding through all the necessary procedures and administrating.

Senator Raynell Andreychuk

– At first when we started a program, they (MPs and senators – author) said: my Goodness, they speak English, they are motivated, they are working hard, they are willing to do anything. They saw people wanting to succeed, so that was whole new look at Ukraine. Countering what we saw in politics: arguing, shifting, elections that didn't go well. All of a sudden young people taking the role saying 'How can I help my country?'. That was really a huge thing.

I tell students when you go back to Ukraine please implement what you've learned in Canada. And when I go to Ukraine myself, I see them doing it and I am very proud of them and so happy to be a part of it.

Borys Wrzesnewskyj is member of Canadian Parliament, has been hosting Ukrainian interns since 2004. He says for Canadian politicians Ukraine is rather an exotic country, while many of them know fairly little about modern Ukraine. CUPP students often play diplomatic role on the Parliament Hill, helping creating good will among Canadians toward Ukraine.

Borys Wrzesnewskyj:

– You [current CUPP interns – author] are the first generation born after the Soviet Union collapsed. You were born in a free and independent Ukraine and you have a unique opportunity to play a role in a history. Not every generation gets this chance, as when a country is well established and developed, one can hardly leave a trace in a history.

At the beginning I sometimes had to convince Canadian politicians to host a Ukrainian intern, explaining how valuable this program is. Sometimes you have to use political arguments, saying 'Look, you get a chance to have a Ukrainian student in your office. Remember, how many Ukrainians you have in your riding?'. But this barely happens, mostly politicians are willing to host Ukrainian interns, they have no prejudice toward Ukraine.

Vasyl Miroshnychenko is a CUPP 2001 alumni. He currently runs a strategic communication company in Kyiv and is also a co-founder of Ukraine Crisis Media Center – an NGO aiming at promoting Ukraine abroad and countering Russian propaganda. He possesses a degree from London School of Economics and has established a network of western educated Ukrainians, which CUPP alumni are also a part of.

Vasyl Miroshnychenko

– CUPP helps future Ukrainian leaders to get educated by parliamentary democracy, it shows how to build a transparent legal system, how to keep government accountable. This knowledge is extremely useful and crucial for students' future and their careers.

One of our goals as alumni is to mobilize western educated Ukrainians for a positive change in a country. A lot of people in our circles have joined the Government, helping fighting corruption, work on deregulation, decentralization, and actually being involved in many other economic reforms, which are so in demand here.

Marta Basysiuk is a CUPP 2016 intern to Bob Bratina, MP for Hamilton East–Stoney Creek, Ontario. Before coming to Canada, Marta worked on development of new legislation on National Police, and participated in recruitment and selection process of police officers and their trainers. Upon arrival in Canada, Marta is actively sharing her experience in Ottawa.

– I want people to know that over last years we've got not only tragic events in Ukraine, but also some positive changes. There are people in Ukraine willing to change the country; we started from the reform of police and want to share this experience with Canadians and those who decide on the policy of the country toward Ukraine. This is something we can be proud of and thus should speak about it. I believe that our presence on Parliament Hill will help Ukraine to enhance relations with Canada and to inspire Ukrainians to work for the better future of our country.

– One of the most important things which makes CUPP a valuable program is people participating in it. CUPP creates a platform which unites remarkable students and young professionals around the idea of learning from western democracies, taking this experience back to Ukraine and changing our country for better. Apart from becoming a member of a big CUPP community, which amounts around 800 alumni, and learning from Canadian MPs, the program gives an opportunity to CUPP interns to share its unique experience, which each of us has managed to obtain, between each other and basically allows us to learn from each other. Seeing that you peer have already succeeded in their area of business is incredibly inspiring and motivating. And this is something what gives you strength for making your own significant input in building your country.

Visiting Lyubomyr Chabursky

Bohdan KIT

Taras Shevchenko National University of Kyiv

2016 Intern to Harold Albrecht, MP for Kitchener–Conestoga, Ontario

Cathy Obal CUPP Scholarship recipient

The visits to the house of Lyubomyr Chabursky and his family are more than just a regular, but interesting event of the CUPP Program. It is the place where you can feel like home and find answers to some very important questions that may come up during your lifetime. Lyubomyr has a wonderful ability to create a ground for public discussion where everyone is willing to share not just a general concern on some topic or issue, but something a bit more personal – his or her own feelings. And this is the goal of participation in such meetings: to feel yourself as if you speak to close friends and seek a piece of advice from them. One of the key features of those visits is cooking time. Volunteers came beforehand in order to prepare delicious salads, lasagna, chicken curry and outstanding baked goods for everyone to enjoy. It helped us to work as a team and make our own contribution to Lyubomyr's initiatives. The most remarkable thing about cooking is that Lyubomyr is a very good manager and knows how to plan things. Therefore, even cooking had a clear-cut plan with time allocation for each process and persons involved.

The very first meeting at Lyubomyr's house was the point of connection for all CUPP 2016 participants as we shared our personal thoughts and feelings and moved one step closer to being called as "friends". Sometimes we felt uncomfortable sharing something personal, but as Lyubomyr said we had to get used to feel comfortable feeling uncomfortable. We discussed such topics as personal development, how to find your passion and what we should do to have a happy family. The most fascinating thing that made all participants really deliberate was a "regret exercise" where everyone should have thought about what he or she would have regret or not regret doing in the age of 60. This exercise demonstrated that while we make choices in our life we must consider different aspects of our decisions. And who knows, maybe if you really think about it from a different perspective, you will find some new answers allowing you to make a better decision. ■

Interview with Taylor Hunt from Canada-US Parliamentary Internship Program

Kvitoslava KROTIUK

Taras Shevchenko National University of Kyiv

Humboldt University of Berlin, Germany

2016 Intern to Bev Shipley, MP for Lambton–Kent–Middlesex, Ontario

Senator Paul Yuzk CUPP Scholarship recipient

The Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program is one of the few internship programs available at the Canadian Parliament. I've been lucky to do my internship at Bev Shipley's office with Taylor Hunt, an intern from the Canada-US Parliamentary Internship Program. Taylor is from Ewing, Kentucky and majors in Government at Morehead State University. Taylor shared his impressions and ideas with me.

Could you tell more about the Canada-US Parliamentary Internship Program?

– The program has existed for many years. Every year a group of students comes to the Hill to do their internship. This year we have around 30 interns on the Hill. I got nominated by one of my university professors to participate in this program.

How do you get to be nominated for the Program?

– It's about your performance in the class. You need to show willingness to work and be a critical thinker.

Why did you decide to do your internship in the House of Commons?

– In fact, doing something like this is completely outside my personality because I am very introverted. I thought doing an internship at Canadian Parliament would be a great way to learn about things that I am passionate about and have fun.

Does your program require you to do any projects while you are here?

– The requirements vary depending on the schools we come from. For example, my school requires me to keep a daily journal and conduct a research project, which I will present next spring at the Morehead State University Celebration of Student Scholarship.

What is the topic of the project you are doing here?

– I am researching the impacts of Trans-Pacific Partnership Agreement on the Canadian agricultural industry. Agriculture is something I really like because I spent all my life in a rural area. I am lucky to be at Mr. Shipley's office since he is the Official Opposition Critic for Rural Affairs and I have a chance to get first-hand knowledge from him because he is a farmer by trade, so he has a unique and personal perspective on agriculture.

How do you feel about working with Bev Shipley?

– Mr. Shipley is just over the top. I really like him. He is very welcoming and genuine. He reminds me of people in my community and I feel very comfortable working with him.

What are your impressions of Canadian parliamentary process?

– I noticed how organized it is. No one speaks out of turn, or at least that rarely happens. Since procedures at the House of Commons are more organized, the House itself works more efficiently.

Would you consider doing an internship at the United States House of Representatives?

– First of all, it is very difficult to get in. Besides, I believe the experience there is not as enriching. Since each Representative has 15-20 staff members, an intern in a Representative's office would probably have a much smaller chance to get involved in actual work and learn things, which is what I do here at the House of Commons.

How does it feel to live in Ottawa?

– Overall, I am not a big fan of city life. I grew up in a rural community. However, I have been enjoying my time in Ottawa. I found that people here are friendly and it is easy to get around the city. The city reminds me of the city of Lexington in Kentucky.

Where do you see yourself 5 years from now?

– Hopefully I will be teaching history and politics and will become a high school principal. I am also thinking of a local political career;

hopefully, my background will help me work on changing education policies. ■

Parliament Hill Tour with Borys Gengalo

Daria Telizyn CUPP Scholarship recipient

Welcome to our walking tour on Parliament Hill! The centrepiece of Ottawa's downtown landscape is the political and cultural heart of the city. The Parliament Buildings sit atop the Hill, the gorgeous Gothic-style structures overlooking the Ottawa River, as the politicians within debate the present and future issues of the country.

On April 10, 2016 CUPP was held a tour on Parliament Hill by Canadian historian and public activist of Ukrainian origin and heritage Bo-rys Gengalo. He is also member of the Ukrainian Canadian Professional and Business Association of Ottawa and every year meets CUPP intern to acquaint them deeper understanding of Canadian history and culture, its architecture and democratic political system.

Parliament Hill is dominated by Centre Block and is fronted by the Peace Tower on the south facade, with the Library of Parliament at the building's rear. The East Block contains ministers' and senators' offices, as well as meeting rooms and other administrative spaces (the West Block is temporary closed and is being renovated). The parliament buildings include a variety of eras and styles of Gothic architecture, including elements from Britain, France and Italy.

Michael Starr (Myhaylo Starchevskyy) of Ukrainian heritage served as a Minister of Labour in the Centre Block.

Central Block is also surrounded by Supreme Court, Confederation, Justice, Sir John A. Macdonald Valour, Victoria, Wellington Buildings, as well by a multitude of monuments of historic significance. Supreme Court built in Art Deco completes the complex of Parliamentary buildings. In front of the Supreme Court are situated two statues which symbolize Veritas and Justitia. It is crucially important that John Sopinka served as the first Canadian puisne justice on the Supreme Court of Ukrainian heritage. He was also a patron of the CUPP program in whose honour a Scholarship is named. The Art Deco style is also represented in the building of Bank of Montreal, which was built at the beginning of the XX century. The style of this Bank served to gain people's trust in the Canadian banking system.

After Parliament Hill our excursion was continued by walking along the ByWard Market established by Lt-Col. John By in 1826. It is one of Canada's oldest and largest public markets. The legendary builder of the Rideau Canal, Colonel By himself laid out the street plan of the Market, designating George Street and York Street to be extra wide to accommodate the creation of a public market and gathering place. Traditionally, the ByWard Market area has been a focal point for Ottawa's French and Irish communities.

Under the kind guidance of Borys Gengalo we also discovered Notre Dame Cathedral, one of the largest and oldest Roman Catholic churches in Ottawa. The shape of the cathedral was taken into account in the design of the National Art Gallery which was built across Sussex Drive. National Art Gallery brightly represents Canadian art, including a large number by the Group of Seven, and strong collections of Indigenous, Asian, and International works.

On behalf of the Interns of CUPP 2016, I extend our sincere thanks to Borys Gengalo for his time and an informative tour of the Hill. It was also a great opportunity to learn a lot of interesting facts about Canadian history and culture. ■

Ukrainian Parliamentary Internship Program Marks 25th Anniversary The Program Represents 'Continuous, Deep, and Trustworthy Relationship Between Our Two Countries,' says one intern

By Chelsea NASH

Published: Wednesday, May 11, 2016 12:00 AM

In 1991, three young interns arrived in Ottawa from Ukraine to gain experience working for a Canadian Member of Parliament. They kicked off a 25-year relationship between Canada and Ukraine through what would develop into the Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program. More than 800 interns have since participated in the program, which brings a new crop of young people to Canada every year to learn about parliamentary procedure and democratic institutions from the inside. For Svitlana Kisilova, Oleh Shemetov, and Halyna Kaplan, three interns currently in Ottawa, all in their early 20s, the program is about learning what they can from what they call a prosperous democracy, and then taking that knowledge back to Ukraine, where they suggest it is desperately needed.

Mr. Shemetov said the internship program, for which interns are chosen through a competitive selection process, can continue to benefit participants long after they return to Ukraine. They are given the opportunity to write for the monthly newsletter and participate in the community of CUPP alumni, of which there are several high-profile members. Former Ukrainian minister of infrastructure Andriy Pyvovarsky and his deputy-turned-successor, Volodymyr Omelyan, both completed the program in 1999.

"We're here as interns, but when our internship ends and we go back to Ukraine, the program doesn't end for us," said Mr. Shemetov.

Their internships run for two months in Ottawa. This year's crop of interns is halfway through their time here. Once finished, the group is set to travel to Toronto to hold a mock Ukraine parliament to discuss bilingualism. While Ukrainian is Ukraine's official language, Russian is spoken throughout the country as well.

*Conservative MP Ben Lobb with his Ukrainian intern, Svitlana Kisilova.
The Hill Times photograph by Chelsea Nash*

The interns said there's a lot Ukraine could learn from Canada. Primarily, they said they appreciated how Canada's politics seems to be based in ideology and values. That's lacking in Ukrainian politics, they said, where corrupt politicians care about politics first, and people second.

"We have a lot of young people who are willing to change the country, that's the key point," said Ms. Kisilova, who is an intern in the office of Conservative MP Ben Lobb (Huron-Bruce, Ont.).

"We are raising the country after our post-Soviet heritage, and now young generations can change it. So such programs as CUPP [are] giving us first-hand experience in how to do those things. It's important to develop such programs and support them, because only young people without this Soviet mindset can change something," she said. Ms. Kisilova and Mr. Shemetov talked about how in Ukraine, about 70 years of Soviet rule had greatly affected the political landscape. Though it became independent in 1991, Ukraine has had a lot of rebuilding to do "from scratch," said Ms. Kisilova.

Canada and Ukraine have a close historical bond, with 1.2 million Canadians claiming Ukrainian heritage. In the tug of war for Ukraine in recent years between the West and Russia, former prime minister Stephen Harper supported the new government of Petro Poroshenko in keeping Ukraine in the Western sphere of influence. He pledged training to the Ukrainian army fighting separatist rebels in the country's Russian-influenced east, concluded free trade talks with the country, gave non-lethal military supplies, and spoke out at every turn against Russian President Vladimir Putin's "aggression" after Russia annexed the Crimean peninsula.

While the Trudeau government has maintained support for Ukraine in the ongoing conflict with Russian-backed separatists, Foreign Minister Stéphane Dion has also suggested Canada's intent to re-engage in diplomacy with Russia. Up until this point, the internship program has been funded by an endowment fund generated by a fundraising event in 1991 at the program's beginning. Over the years, the program has received some donations from Ukrainian-Canadians, but has relied on interest from the endowment to sustain itself. According to the director of the program, Ihor Bardyn, there is only enough money left to bring maybe five students here next year. Mr. Bardyn, who works for CUPP on a voluntary basis, is currently looking into acquiring more funding, and is planning to approach the federal government.

The interns, who are university students or young professionals, don't pay anything to participate in the program or to come to Canada, though they are not paid by MPs either. Some of them, including Ms. Kisilova, still manage to work in Ukraine remotely.

A 2004 article in the Canadian Parliamentary Review tells how the program got its start: "The chair of the Ukrainian Studies Foundation of Toronto decided to establish a program for undergraduate university students from Ukraine. Its goal was to promote and assist the democratization process in Ukraine." Interns get the chance to participate in Hill life including attending Question Period and committees, helping with an MP's administrative office functions, researching questions from constituents, and attending meetings and conferences.

Candidates are selected based of academic excellence, community

Duncan praises CUPP

I am delighted that the Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Program (CUPP) program will continue this year. Starting this April, I will welcome another inspiring young Ukrainian intern to my Ottawa Parliamentary office. CUPP was established in 1991 by the Ukrainian Studies Foundation of Toronto to commemorate the centennial of Ukrainian group immigration to Canada. The program has offered the opportunity to Ukrainian students to work in the Canada's Parliament and learn about our Westminster model of governance.

I have over my term in office been fortunate to host a number of fabulous interns. My most recent intern Maria Korolenko shared with me her experience in the demonstrations, as she calls "the revolution of dignity", in Kyiv's Maidan Square. Inspired by her Canadian experience, Maria returned to Ukraine to become directly involved through an NGO in helping implement democratic reforms and assisting with refugees escaping the eastern area strife. Initially engaged in helping the government agency exploring improved energy efficiency and renewable energy sources, she is now employed by an award winning start-up Ukraine energy efficiency firm. I have been able to catch up with Maria during her regular marketing trips to Canada as she explores new markets for their innovative efficiency technologies. I am equally delighted to learn that Ukraine is exploring more efficient energy sources and uses as it was a subject I was keen to explore with Ukraine officials during my first trip to Ukraine before the change in government. This new found interest may open doors to partnerships with Canadian energy firms in building Ukraine's energy efficiency sector. Recent decisions to extend aid to small and medium businesses in Ukraine may help pave the way for these joint ventures.

volunteer work, leadership potential, teacher recommendations, and fluency in English or French, and Ukrainian, the article said.

Mr. Shemetov interns with Trade Minister Chrystia Freeland (University-Rosedale). He also serves as co-coordinator of the program along with Olga Spytzia, who works for Conservative MP Robert Sopuck (Dauphin-Swan River-Neepawa, Man.). Ms. Freeland herself is Ukrainian-Canadian and worked in Ukraine for several years at the beginning of her former career as a journalist.

"We think that it [represents a] continuous, deep, and trustworthy relationship between our two countries," said Ms. Kaplan, who interns for Liberal MP Michael Levitt (York Centre, Ont.). "Otherwise your country would not let us into its Parliament," she said, indicating that the interns have full parliamentary access, just as any Canadian staff member would have. "It means they have trust in us, and it's the highest level of support we can get."

Liberal MP Arif Virani (Parkdale-High Park, Ont.) also hosts a Ukrainian intern in his office.

"I believe in interns," he told The Hill Times, explaining that he himself had come up through the ranks of the Parliamentary Intern Program. "I believe in that kind of mentorship, and giving people exposure to government and doing it from the inside of an MP's office."

Mr. Virani, who is also a vice-chair of the Canada-Ukraine Parliamentary Friendship Group, explained that he has a large Ukrainian-Canadian population in his Toronto riding, so participating in the internship program "is a double-barrelled motivation."

Mr. Lobb said he likes that the program, he said, is not skewed to any one party. "The office beside me is a Liberal, and I think Svitlana's friend works for that person, and that's great too. They get to see it from all political parties and everything."

Mr. Lobb said he and his staff are given the opportunity to learn a lot about Ukraine, as well. On Ms. Kisilova's first day, his whole office went out for lunch together to learn more about where Ms. Kisilova comes from.

Ms. Kisilova said another reason why the program is so important for young Ukrainians is because they get to act as ambassadors for their country.

"We don't want people to think that we are only having sex tourism or vodka or anything else," she said.

"When you come [to Ukraine], you see a lot of open-minded and very enthusiastic young people who are working on their mission. They are ready to change and they are ready to tell the world what they are, but the world is seeing only stereotypes."

There are currently 35 Ukrainians participating as interns in a number of MP and ministerial offices

Ms. Spytzia said she was first motivated to come to the program to see how the democracy of a "good, developed country" works, to see what could be implemented back in Ukraine.
